BILLS, BILLS, BILLS. Granite City Treasurer Nick Petrillo examines stacks of unpaid ambulance bills Wednesday, totalling approximately $60,000. The mounting bills have

Debt-free levee district is ready for high water

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record
The story of how the 75-year-old Metro-East Sanitary District is attaining debt-free status in 1982 was told Tuesday by its president and chief administrator, Walter "Shang" Greathouse.

A big dividend from the district's efficiency gains and fiscal progress is that all present and near-future flooding problems stemming from the winter snowfall and spring runoffs will be handled with relative ease, he asserted, saying, "We've got the problem whipped."

The steps to solvency have included cutting the staff from more than 100 employees to 33, resisting political hiring pressure, and strictly limiting the district to the moving of surface drainage water through a network of ditches and into the Mississippi River, Greathouse said.

Addressing Granite City Rotarians, he noted that tax anticipation warrants were reduced from $2½ million in December 1977 to about $400,000 last year, and that such borrowing will be avoided entirely this year.

Bond debt also became gigantic at one point and has now been brought under control, he said, adding that "we are watching every penny of cost—from telephones, to lighting, air conditioning and the operation of our nine pumping stations and two treatment plants."

He said drastic trimming of the staff was carried out only by accepting the fact that it would be necessary to fight and fight hard for the concept of fiscal responsibility.

There were numerous threats of bodily harm, it was noted.

"It was a real knock them down and

Hall wins 'trial year' as collector

By GEORGEANN McGEE
of the Press-Record
Nameoki Township Tax Collector Norman Hall won his first battle towards a one-year experiment to convince taxpayers that the local collector concept is not a dinosaur that refuses to die, but rather can be a money saver.

Monday, Hall was convincing enough for the Nameoki Township Board of Trustees to agree 3-1 to fund the office. The exact salary is yet to be approved, but Hall made a $7,000-a-year request in closed session.

He is asking for an additional $1,000-a-year assistant's salary and $900 in expenses. The total funding request is a $549 drop from his predecessor.

"The assistant's salary would not go to relative, but to someone unemployed, Hall promised.

Casting the negative vote, Trustee Helen Hawkins said the township's repeated attempts towards proving its tax collector's worth has gone on too long. "They (past collectors) always want to give it one more try—but that's been going on for 10 years," Mrs. Hawkins said.

Last month, Hall promised the board he would find out if the tax collector could prevent borrowing—should the county treasurer be slow distributing taxes collected—for the more than a dozen taxing bodies the township helps support.

The debate comes in the midst of a race for county treasurer. Incumbent County Treasurer Mick Henkhaus calls charge that the county holds tax collections "irrationally."

Henkhaus pointed out that tax bills were not sent out until August last year, slowing down funding for local districts.

disipation warrants and prevent them from paying enough interest on the warrants to justify Hall's salary.

"We can do the same thing (as a township collector) for nothing," Henkhaus said.

Hall contended his methods can beat the county's disbursements by "at least 30 days" and save possibly $25,000 to $40,000, or more. He plans to give tax payments to taxing district within seven days of tax payments to the township or local banks.

"Contacts with eight of our major tax-supported bodies strongly encouraged local collections and disbursements. It is their opinion that the reduced time of taxes being received would be of great savings to them," according to a statement made by Hall. He chooses not to name the local taxing district officials he contacted.

Hall said he also has made contacts with "eight of the major industries," and said they will cooperate with the township collector's "early collection and disbursements" plan.

32% ambulance hike?

By GEORGEANN McGEE
of the Press-Record

Neighboring mayors and out-of-town residents may have been given a glimpse into the future this week when they inadvertently received letters outlining a substantial jump in ambulance fees.

City Comptroller Joseph Miklovic was busy calling mayors Wednesday to correct the premature announcement, intended only for the eyes of the Granite City Council's ambulance committee.

The letter beat the announcement of a meeting the city is planning to correct the committee will be considering an increase from $95 to $125 in the basic ambulance run charge to residents outside the city limits. In addition, the cost per mile would double from $1 to $2, if the proposal is adopted.

Alderman Sam Whitmer, chairman of the city's ambulance committee, said it costs more for the ambulance department to make out-of-town runs than the city receives in fees.

He said the city can subsidize fees for city residents, but not out-of-town costs.

"I expect those people to be unhappy," Whitmer predicted.

City residents now are charged $75 per ambulance call and escape the tentative out-of-town hike, but perhaps not for long. Whitmer said a study also is being conducted on those fees.

The ambulance committee had earlier asked Miklovic for options to generate more revenue for the department, with an aim towards self-sufficiency.

The comptroller said an initial proposal letter was written and given to the ambulance committee, and eventually to the mayor.

The letter was subsequently redrafted and erroneously mailed to the mayors of neighboring communities, Miklovic said.

All those who received the wrong letter can expect to receive a correction letter in the mail. Miklovic said he hopes the mail service delivers the second batch of letter as promptly as the first batch.

Before the suggested fee increases become effective, they will have to be reviewed and approved by the ambulance committee. The committee then will decide whether or not to send the new fees for a vote on the council floor.

of the day yesterday and more witnesses are expected to be heard today. An attorney for the Attorney Registration and Disciplinary Commission said in advance of the opening of the inquiry yesterday that the activities of the commission are secret and would be closed to the press.

According to Manning's subpoena, the commission is attempting to determine if Attorney Morris Chapman, among others, acted wrongly in his part in the campaign to remove Judges Mosele and DeLaurenti from office. It is against the canons of ethics of the bar association to make false statements about judges.

Bar says 2 'unqualified' as judges

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

Lawyers regard Circuit Judge Charles W. Chapman as highly qualified and rate Circuit Judge Philip J. Rarick, Associate Judge Paul J. O'Neill and former Circuit Judge John L. DeLaurenti as qualified for election to Third Circuit posts this year. All are Democrats.

But the lawyers have voted "not qualified" on both of the men running for the former Moses Harrison circuit judgeship—Democrat George J. Moran Jr. of Granite City, a circuit judge by appointment, and Republican William C. Evers III, a Collinsville attorney.

Pointing out there are no elected Republican judges in this Democratic-leaning region, Evers attributes the lawyers' vote on him to political considerations.

Moran also is critical of the rating given him: He is the son of retired Appellate Judge Circuit Judge Moran. Out of a possible 100 points, summary scores were: Chapman 90.31, O'Neill 87.33, Rarick 86.72, DeLaurenti 84.29, Moran 64.49 and Evers 62.30.

Chapman seeks the former Victor Mosele judgeship, Rarick the former Harold Clark position, O'Neill the seat Joseph Barr is vacating, and DeLaurenti the County seat vacated post he occupied through 1980.

David N. Anderson, Illinois State Bar Association public affairs director, said Tuesday at Springfield that 46 candidates for judicial offices outside Cook County were evaluated in an ISBA advisory poll.

Nominees for one appellate court seat and 26 circuit court positions will be selected in the March 16 primary election.

Candidates were rated qualified, highly qualified, not qualified or grossly unqualified based on a poll conducted by the State Bar in cooperation with local bar associations.

A grossly unqualified rating, 42.63 out of 100, was given to Robert Mays, who won the Democratic nomination for appellate judge here in 1980 but lost in the general election. He is running now for circuit judge in the 20th Judicial Circuit in St. Clair County.

Lawyers who practice in the district or circuit in which each candidate seeks election answer 15 questions about the various aspirants. The questions relate to four general areas of judicial performance—integrity, temperament,

Talk of layoffs leaves treatment staff uneasy

In emotional but controlled tones, Wastewater Treatment Plant Foreman Terrance Kelahan defended the reputation of his workers, whom he said, are living with "anxiety and pressure" as their job efficiency and security are constantly being questioned.

The foreman said he was speaking honestly when he said treatment plant employees work "just as hard" as workers in any industry.

Further plant reductions "will be cutting into lean," will be cutting into bone," Kelahan said as he spoke before the Granite City Council Tuesday.

A frank and accusing situation still unsettled, no council action was taken on the proposed residential rate increase, which is linked to a proposed seven-man layoff.

The compromise rate plan came from a proposal by City Comptroller Joseph Miklovic, who suggested industrial rates be doubled and residential fees be increased by almost $9 per quarter (each three months).

Miklovic said funds are needed to make up reserve deficits, pay back loans the city has made to the plant and to put the treatment plant on a self-sufficient basis.

Alderman Warren Decatur, chairman of the pollution control committee, is calling a special council meeting for 7 p.m. Tuesday to further discuss the rate increase proposal. "It should come to a head," Decatur said of the issue.

"Maybe they (the aldermen) want a $9 increase," Decatur said.

Upset that the layoff proposals had not been presented to the negotiating committee first, Young told aldermen that the union had been asked to negotiate with the committee Feb. 3 on offer to reopen contract talks, if necessary.

"We're not going through the process," Young said, contending, "You're taking it in reverse."

Doll house show to help Hospice

A wide variety of doll houses will be featured in a benefit show to aid Hospice, planned Sunday, March 21, at the Nameoki Recreation Center, Amos and Franklin avenues. It was announced this week.

The event is believed to be the first of its type in this area and is scheduled to take place from 1 p.m. until 4 p.m. March 21.

The public is invited to view the various doll house exhibits, according to Mrs. Judy Stille, who is sponsoring the show.

Thirty individuals from area communities have agreed to display houses in the show, so far, with additional exhibitors invited to participate by calling Mrs. Stille at 876-7892.

Custom built doll houses or miniature dwellings, which have been purchased and furnished by the individual owner, may be exhibited in the show.

Each exhibitor taking part will receive a $5 gift certificate from Toys 'N' Bots Shop, 1343 Nineteenth St., the sponsor said.

Donations of $2 for adults and $1 for children under 10 years old will be asked those viewing the event.

All the funds collected will be donated to Hospice, Mrs. Stille advised.

Seminar on employee morale is offered by SIUE group

A seminar to help improve employee morale and productivity will be held in St. Louis, Tuesday and Wednesday by the Center for Management Studies at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

James F. Miller Jr., center director, said the course offers several instructional techniques which can help participants understand how to increase product quality and quantity while strengthening the attitudes of employees. The seminar is designed for supervisors, foremen, plant managers, personnel directors, engineers or anyone who is directly involved in manufacturing functions.

The program will be led by Roland J. Hacker, president of Participative Action Circles, Inc., who has taught management and leadership training classes for various industries and businesses. Hacker will discuss planning methods, job satisfaction and the need to motivate employees.

His basic goal in the presentation will be to provide participants with methods of making their business functions more efficient and productive. The techniques Hacker will explain include an overlapping of psychological tools to improve attitudes, production choices, participation of employees in decision-making and budget management.

The seminar will meet from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. each day at Henry VIII Inn and Lodge, 4090 N. Lindberg in St. Louis. The tax deductible fee, including luncheons and meeting materials, is $570, payable to SIUE.

Spotlight on health

By CERALDINE L. BOWER, Ph.D.

University of Illinois Extension Adviser

Cautions with over-the-counter drugs should be used since about $5 million will be spent this year, by American consumers, on over-the-counter medicines to treat problems ranging from dandruff to upset stomachs to ingrown toenails. Over-the-counter or OTC medicines are those that can be bought without a doctor's prescription. Almost 250,000 different OTC products are now sold at grocery, department and drug stores across the nation.

OTC drugs are not as strong as prescription medicines and are safe for most people if directions on the labels are followed. One important difference between OTC drugs and those a doctor prescribes is that OTC medicines do not cure illness. Instead, they lessen the symptoms of illness.

For example, if your child has an earache, a doctor can prescribe an antibiotic medicine that will actually help clear up the infection causing it. The aspirin or other non-prescription pain killer you can buy over the counter may make the ear hurt less but will not work on clearing up the infection.

Other examples are the dozens of OTC products sold for treating colds, these too, reduce symptoms, but do not cure.

In general, severe symptoms or those that last more than one week should not be treated with OTC medicines. A doctor should examine the ill person and decide if a prescription drug or some other type of treatment is needed.

When buying and using OTC medicines, keep the following guidelines in mind: Buy only in amounts you and your family will use fairly quickly, and write date of purchase on label. Some drugs spoil when stored for long periods of time.

Store all medicines out of reach of children in dark, dry places. Moisture and light may cause spoilage.

Read all medicines in original, labeled containers. That way, you will know all the details in an emergency, such as if a child swallows more than he or she should.

Administer medicines to children—rather than letting them get their own. Never confuse children by telling them medicine tastes like or is candy.

Always read labels — follow instructions with care and heed warnings on OTC drugs for people with high blood pressure, kidney problems and other health problems. Taking some OTC drugs if you have such problems can cause serious illness or even death.

Use OTC drugs only for minor symptoms that last a few days, unless your doctor knows that you are using them.

If you have questions about buying OTC medicines, talk them over with a pharmacist. Don't feel shy about asking a pharmacist for help in picking or using either OTC or prescription medicines. Most are very willing to help.

drag them out' fight. It was very rough. But there had been tremendous waste for many years, and we simply could not go on increasing the debt and absorbing costs that we could not afford.

"It just wasn't right for some of the officials to say, 'This is how it's always been done, so let's go on doing it that way.' But many of them wanted to continue borrowing and spending, and if they had prevailed we would be in terrible condition today.

"What we undertook with the sanitary district is tough to do. Even when there is less pressure than we encountered, it is not easy to vote to take away people's jobs.

"I know how difficult it must be for Granite City aldermen right now. They're beginning to encounter some of the types of budget decisions that we've been dealing with for the past three years.

"In our case, with two counties involved, we finally had to tell (Granite City Treasurer) Nick Petrillo and (Madison County Treasurer) Mick Henkhaus to stop sending us a dime of money until we could make sure that the funds were going to go for necessary expenses."

The speaker became a member of the Metro-East Sanitary District board in 1977 and has been its manager for the past three years. He serves on an unsalaried basis, other than his $3,800 annual pay as a board member. Encompassing an area of 100 square miles in bottomland portions of Madison and St. Clair counties, the successor agency to the old East Side Levee and Sanitary District once spent vast sums and was regarded as a political patronage haven.

Greathouse said that when he was considering accepting appointment to the board (his term ends in December 1982), he stipulated that he must receive no interference from governmental and political leaders.

He regarded this assurance as vital if he was to successfully shoulder the task of ending "red ink" and shaping the district into the kind of entity that could fight waste and effectively meet its duties.

He said he knows a lot about "red ink," having grown up in the 1600 block of Delmar Avenue at a time when his family could not afford a $4 yearly YMCA membership fee even though he spent a lot of his waking hours at the "Y."

Greathouse still spends the bulk of his time in the downtown area, only a few blocks away from where he was born; he keeps busy throughout the day at the sanitary district's office, 1801 Madison Ave.

"I haven't forgotten that my father (a former Granite City alderman) was on the levee payroll many years ago and my sons worked for the district for brief periods while they were going to college.

But the debt and inefficiency had reached such unbelievable proportions that it became apparent somebody had to try to put the operations on a businesslike basis.

"I've been working from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. to cope with the problems, and all of the staff have been pitching in, too. "Instead of an effort of 100 men, we've cut this to four girls and myself. It's fortunate that I have some real estate interests or I wouldn't be able to afford to give my time for free."

"The payroll has been cut from $110,000 or $120,000 a month to less than $40,000 a month. We keep a close watch on our utility costs, which can be very high during the 30 to 40 days each year when we need to operate pumps at the river levee.

"We have seven of our pumps operating today. We get involved when the river reaches a stage of 19 feet, and it is at 26 or 27 feet now.

"We had to take a stand against the Engineer Corps' attitude that we should have two men on duty for three shifts a day at every pumping station. We cannot afford it.

"Incidentally, the Corps is extremely knowledgeable about what is needed to avoid floods in this region. It has highly capable people and has been extremely cooperative in helping us solve our problems.

"Anything without reason that we need at any time, we are able to get. Just yesterday, we borrowed a 12-inch pump from them.

Greathouse said factors in improving operations of the sanitary district have been the strong backing of Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagauer and the 26-member county board, and the control that was obtained by Madison County when its area within the district topped the St. Clair County area in assessed valuation. The board consists of two Democrats and one Republican from this county and one Democrat and one Republican from St. Clair County. The former makeup was 3-2, with St. Clair in the majority.

At one time the district was empowered to issue construction bonds without obtaining voters' approval in elections. Now, there is no such independent bonding authority.

The basic tax rate limit for general salary, operating and maintenance costs remains at the level set in 1907, Greathouse told the club.

Inflation, has been adding to the difficulty of the district officials' effort to end indebtedness and balance the budget. And the trend toward a smaller assessment base in the East St. Louis area has further complicated the task, the speaker said.

He said yearly revenue has dropped from a range of $3 million to $2.4 million in the past to only $1,400,000 at present.

The Lansdowne sewage treatment plant serves Madison, Venice, Brooklyn, Caseyville, Fairmont City, Washington Park and parts of East St. Louis with primary treatment of sewage before it is discharged into the river, he said.

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency is urging secondary treatment but the district has delayed it because of lack of funds. It has partly met the impact of inflation by relating its treatment charges to the volume of usage shown on water bills, he said.

Lansdowne secondary treatment equipment would cost about $16 million now, compared to a $6 million estimate years ago, the club was told.

The sanitary district's other treatment plant, in Cahokia, is being turned over to become a part of that municipality's treatment facilities, Greathouse pointed out.

He estimated that MESD receives about $1 million in calls a year and he tries to handle most of them in order to learn of problems throughout the district and to explain what the district can or cannot do to solve them.

"We're making real progress in our relations with the people we serve and the taxpayers. Many farmers used to be unhappy with us, but the other day two farmers asked if they could annex 5,000 acres to our district territory," Greathouse recalled.

"As you know, we are located in the bottomland and receive runoff from the bluff areas—Edwardsville, Collinsville, Fairview Heights and Belleville. It is our basic job to cope with it safely.

"With the help of the Illinois Department of Conservation, we are keeping Horseshoe Lake at a level of several inches above the spillway. As long as there is a continuous flow, we are in good shape and can handle a flash flood.

"We have widened some of the ditches from the width of this table (several feet to the width of this room (the YMCA auditorium)).

"We have to remember our fundamental obligation and not become diverted. We are under constant pressure from various lake area land owners who have differing and sometimes competing interests among themselves.

"Hunters from Missouri sometimes ask us whether we are maintaining the lake at a level enabling them to get to their duck blinds, but we are not working for them.

"I really don't have the kind of disposition to want to be arguing and fighting with anyone, but I think we all owe it to our community and our country to try and make our government work the way it is supposed to.

"We get calls demanding that we pump out mobile home camps or other areas, but we cannot ethically pump any property except our own. We have to say 'No' to them, and we are saying it."

"If I tried to sneak a pump out to help some neighborhood we'd get 400 calls to do the same thing elsewhere.

"We own three bridges across canals, and the highway department wanted us to fix one of them. We said we had no money for the repair work.

"They said we had to fix it, so we offered to tear it down.

"They didn't want us to do that, so we put a big pile of dirt on each side of it and blocked it for seven or eight months. We didn't want the liability, if someone got hurt on it.

"Finally, to meet the cost of fixing the bridge, the state government came up with $112,000. St. Clair County $38,000, East St. Louis $15,000 and our district $15,000. We didn't actually pay anything because we deducted our share from what East St. Louis owed us in sewer bills.

"Vandalism and equipment losses have cost us hundreds of thousands of dollars over the years. We don't issue any new tools now until they bring back the ones we issued before.

"People like to take guns and shoot out our electrical equipment. They ask boards to pry out our cables. We need to change the controls on our low-water dam, and people use logs to jam it. But we stay on top of everything and try to keep these expenses to a minimum.

"We charge for our easements these days. Everyone else does, so why shouldn't we have that revenue?"

"People and companies that get easements from us often do a lot of damage, tearing up our levees and trying to leave them that way. We insist that they restore them the way they were.

"The Illinois Department of Transportation also has caused some serious problems when their highway construction across our easements has changed the land and the water flow. We just cannot afford this, and have begun working very closely with them to avoid seeing new drainage problems created.

"Some of the kinds of savings that we achieved don't show up in our budget, but they have had a big effect.

"We're also looking at other ways to improve our financial outlook. We own thousands of acres and some of them we no longer need.

"We've decided to spend $40,000 to $50,000 with a title company to determine exactly what we own and don't own. It's not easy to determine, because some lands revert to the original owners' heirs when not used for their original purpose.

"This will be money well spent because we intend to put as much of this land back on the tax rolls as we can. And the funds we receive for what we sell can help the district's budget.

"For example, a levee right-of-way running four miles from the canal area to the Tri-City Port is now served by the new Chouinard area sanitary sewers. If this land can be converted to subdivisions, it will be worth $1,500 to $2,000 a lot.

"We also are interested in selling a lot of dirt from levees that aren't in active use.

"Our goals have included performing the function for which we were created—handling surface drainage—and at the same time operating 'in the black.'"

"We're happy to say that we're now able to operate the district in that fashion."

The speaker was introduced by Robert Jackson, program chairman, Rotary President Robert Maxwell presided.

Talk of layoffs

The union has a current contract, he said, and that contract and ordinance are in full force until the council again starts negotiations.

"You've appointed a negotiating committee," Young told the alderman, but added that since the signing of the contract in 1980, "I don't know who I'm negotiating with." He noted that the council has even designated an "out-of-town" company as one of the negotiating choices.

The union agent strongly disagrees with plant staffing numbers prepared by Management Management Corp., St. Louis, presented to the council by Decatur. The alderman told the council last Tuesday that company experts believe they could run the plant with fewer employees. Decatur said the company would be willing to bid on operating the facility.

Kelahan said the management company toured the plant for an hour and a half and discussed plant operations for about 45 minutes. In that time, the foreman contended, the company representatives did not have an opportunity to fully understand plant operations.

Kelahan said that only two sources can give the council the answer to how many men are needed at the plant—the plant superintendent and the employees who work the shifts.

The union agent had harsh words for any "outside company" that might take over the plant operations, claiming city employees would be routed from their jobs by outside "scabs." He deduced "scabs" as workers who take the place of other employees.

If a company does take over operations, Decatur contended, "They would keep the present employees."

Kelahan said he just wants to see the staffing problems finally settled. He said that although the council is talking about seven "layoffs," the results would be the same as firing the employees.

He called the $4.30 quarterly rate hike and layoff compromise a "no-win proposal for everybody." The city controller has confirmed that a lesser rate increase would likely mean another rate increase in the near future.

In the meanwhile, Kelahan said, the plant would still be in debt and would not be able to function properly with the decreased staff.

"Without any possible benefit," the foreman said, the city would "jeopardize health of the community," by the compromise.

Mayor Paul Schuler said Kelahan gave an "excellent" presentation to the council. The mayor said he commended the staffing at the plant to remain at its present level. Decatur, who took some lapses during the speeches, said he and his committee were asked by the council to bring in alternatives to the $9 quarterly rate increase.

"They have had their day in court," Decatur said of the open discussion, adding, "I think they got it all out."

Students to jump rope for Heart Association

Several Quad-City area schools have registered to "Jump Rope for Heart," a national special event sponsored by the Illinois Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation (IAPHER), for the benefit of the Heart Association.

The event will be held at Madison County schools and other places March 18 through April 11. March is National Physical Education and Sports Month, and the event has been endorsed by the Governor's Council on Health and Fitness.

Students work with the coordinators in organizing rope-jumping competition. Members of six-student teams each jump rope, relieving each other when tiring, for a maximum of three hours. Cash pledges for each minute of rope-jumping contribute to Heart Association research, public and professional education and community service projects, such as CPR training and blood pressure screening.

Participants and schools are eligible for prizes, which range from T-shirts and jackets to gymnasium and classroom equipment.

Schools not scheduled to participate may obtain information on "Jump Rope for Heart" by calling the Illinois Affiliate of the American Heart Association, toll-free at 1-800-252-8511, or writing to the American Heart Association, 1181 North Dirksen Parkway, Springfield, Ill. 62708.

Flooding brings health hazards

By MARY RICHARDS
Dept. of Public Health
Illinois has had a lot of snow this year, and if there is even a normal amount of rain during the rest of the thaw, we will probably have flood conditions throughout the state, especially in Southern Illinois.

Flooding means that a lot of people will probably be exposed to the health hazards that occur in the wake of the receding water. Some of the potential hazards associated with contaminated water include hepatitis, intestinal parasites and tetanus.

The Illinois Department of Public Health wants to caution residents about the kinds of health problems that can result from flooded water supplies or contaminated water.

Unfortunately, there are no vaccines for some of the diseases associated with contaminated water. In those cases where there is a vaccine, the vaccination will not be effective once a person has been exposed to a disease, even if the state health department were to go into a flooded community and conduct a mass immunization program.

There are several types of infection that are possible and a disease may take any one of several forms. The most common symptoms of most water-borne infections are diarrhea, vomiting, fever, chills, muscle aches, nausea, and abdominal cramps. Any one of these symptoms, or a combination of two or more, should be a signal to see a doctor.

In most cases, symptoms will appear anywhere from a day to one week following exposure to one of the organisms. The exception is hepatitis, which usually has an incubation period of about one month.

If you should get hepatitis, you can expect to experience some or all of the following symptoms—fever, chills, weakness, tiredness, abdominal pain, vomiting, dark-colored urine, light-colored stools and then jaundice.

By the time jaundice appears, the patient has been contagious to the people around him for about three weeks. If you want to protect others, you should see a doctor as soon as the fever, chills, weakness and other early symptoms begin.

Tetanus also can be a problem for flood victims, for tetanus can result from any puncture wound or deep cut that becomes contaminated. If, while cleaning up after the flood, you suffer such a wound and you have not had tetanus shot within the past five years, you should get a tetanus shot—right away.

Those who live in rural areas should know that many organisms, such as viruses and internal parasites, are contained in the stools of farm animals and, in a flood situation, can contaminate the water supply.

Typhoid contamination of the water can occur only if there is a large number of people who have, or carry, the typhoid organism. Fortunately, there have been so few cases of typhoid cases in Illinois in recent years, that there is not enough of it around to contaminate public water supplies.

Illinois Power names dividend

Illinois Power Company has announced the 139th consecutive quarterly dividend on its common stock. The action was taken by the firm's board of directors, which declared a dividend of 62 cents per share on the common stock of the company.

The board also declared regular quarterly dividends of 51 cents per share on the 4.08 percent cumulative preferred stock, 52½ cents per share on the 4.20 percent cumulative preferred stock, 53½ cents per share on the 4.26 percent cumulative preferred stock, and 54½ cents per share on the 4.42 percent cumulative preferred stock, 58½ cents per share on the 4.70 percent cumulative preferred stock, $1.03 per share on the 8.24 percent cumulative preferred stock, 94½ cents per share on the 7.56 percent cumulative preferred stock, $1.12½ per share on the 8.94 percent cumulative preferred stock, $1 per share on the 8 percent cumulative preferred stock, and $1.45½ per share on the 11.66 percent cumulative preferred stock.

These dividends are payable May 1, 1982, to stockholders of record on April 9, 1982.

State happy with low bond interest rate

Governor James R. Thompson announced Tuesday that the state of Illinois accepted a bid on its latest general obligation bond sale nearly two interest points lower than the last sale in October.

"Today's sale is positive proof that the bond market and financial experts in the country view Illinois bonds as an excellent investment, an achievement that can be directly attributed to the state's sound fiscal condition," the governor said.

Thompson said that the state received four bids on its offer to sell $100 million in 10-year bonds Tuesday morning. The lowest bid of 9.778 percent interest cost from First Boston Corporation of New York was accepted by the state, he said.

The state also received three other bids; Thompson said, giving further evidence to the state's good financial condition. They were: 9.812 percent from Citibank of New York, 9.8273 percent from Morgan Guaranty of New York and 9.9225 percent from the Harris Bank of Chicago. "Coupled with our recent renewal of the state's Triple-A bond rating, today's sale at such a low interest rate is very good news and again shows Illinois is viewed as an example of intelligent, fiscal management," Thompson said.

In October 1981, the state sold $100 million in general obligation bonds at 11.56 percent interest. Since that time, through a series of decisions aimed at putting the state in a better position to respond to changing bond market conditions, the interest rate for Illinois bonds has dropped 1.78 percent, he said.

Thompson said Tuesday's sale, which will probably be the last this fiscal year, was comprised of $40 million in bonds for transportation projects, $10 million in bonds for anti-pollution projects and $50 million for Capital Development Board projects in Illinois.

Charges filed after accident

David R. Cooper, 30, of 4212 Maryville Road, was arrested at 7:20 p.m. Tuesday at Johnson and Pontoon roads, where his damaged pickup truck had become mired.

Officers charged him with driving while intoxicated, leaving the scene of a collision and driving without headlights.

It is alleged that as his truck turned left at the point where Johnson Road turns, near Edgewood, the vehicle traveled north a short distance and then its front end hit the rear of a parked auto at about 7:15.

The car of David C. Becherer, 1677 Fourth St., Madison, was parked facing north on Johnson Road 20 feet south of Gary Avenue.

legal ability and court management. Resident circuit judges are elected from a county, but the poll was conducted throughout the entire circuit in such instances.

Chapman is running in Madison County and DeLaurenti in Bond County. O'Neill, Harlick, Evers and Moran are running in the entire Third Circuit, Madison and Bond counties.

In the voting on all six candidates in this circuit, 293 ballots were mailed; 165 were returned on four of the group, and 164 ballots were returned on Chapman and DeLaurenti.

Tim Swain of Peoria, chairman of the ISBA Judicial Advisory Poll Committee, said this week, "The poll is conducted to assist voters in the difficult task of making informed decisions about candidates seeking judicial office."

"It is based on the premise that fellow attorneys are best able to evaluate candidates according to the necessary qualifications for judicial service."

"Failure to be rated as qualified does not reflect on the candidate's ability as a lawyer but is an indication that his colleagues do not find him or her qualified for the judicial position being sought."

"Candidates receiving above 90 points are rated highly qualified, above 70 qualified, below 70 not qualified and

A poll will be conducted prior to the Nov. 2 general election on judges seeking retention and thus not involved in the primary, and on independent candidates or those not previously polled."

Meanwhile, Attorney John Dale Stobbs of Alton said in Wood River Tuesday that a Republican lineal program is monitoring and investigating the Madison County judicial system.

Accompanied by Madison County Republican Chairman Edward Ragsdale, he said it is hoped that the effort will grow into a bipartisan drive to improve the courts.

Stobbs cited the defeat of Mosele and DeLaurenti when they sought retention in office two years ago. Among those contributing to the campaign against the two judges were lawyers active in trying cases in the Third Circuit.

A colonel in the Air Force Reserve, Stobbs told a press conference gathering in Alton that the impartial judiciary that is not going to be beholden to a special interest, whether it is the Madison County Democratic machine or lawyers who contribute to it.

He cited an Illinois Supreme Court ruling (disclosed in the Press-Record long before St. Louis newspaper coverage of it). The ruling criticized the large number of out-of-state personal injury lawsuits filed and heard in Madison County, and suggested that this volume contributes to court delays in the Third Circuit.

Stobbs called Tuesday for a reduction in the time required to obtain a trial, and urged an end to "one-sided politics in the courts."

He cited a public perception that plaintiffs are generally favored here and that monetary judgments usually are large. Most of the lawyers active in arguing injury cases in this region are Democrats; many are wealthy and give big sums to election campaign treasuries, it is being contended.

Stobbs said he has detected increasing support among citizens and attorneys for the possible creation of an on-going Madison County judicial inquiry committee.

Dr. Ragsdale said the absence of Republican circuit judges works against the potential selection and appointment through voting by the present Madison County residents are Republicans, Dr. Ragsdale said.

Former Judge Clark is a Republican. When he retired, the Democratic-controlled Illinois Supreme Court chose a Democrat to succeed him.

Hall wins

His talks with the commercial and industrial taxpayers indicates to him that first month tax collections can "easily be doubled," if not tripled, during that same time period.

Trustee W. Lee Adams, who voted for the one-year experiment, had at first opposed a township collector, but Hall's opinion that he could increase early collections were convincing. "I am thinking of townships...and school districts," Adams said.

Supervisor Harry Briggs and Trustee Don Wilson also voted for Hall's proposal. Trustee Joseph Garcia was absent.

"The former tax collector told me that's the softest job," Mrs. Hawkins commented on the role of township collector.

Hall estimated his role actually collecting taxes would last one and one-half to two months, but preparations would take six to eight months. He pointed out he is already working on this summer's collection system.

Mrs. Hawkins said the township collector's office has been eliminated in all but three counties in state. Henkhaus said that only 11 townships in this county retain collectors.

Mrs. Hawkins said the "county already has the system" and has expended "time and money" to set up a collections system similar to the townships.

She said the township has made some cutbacks within the past few years, including the elimination of the assistant supervisor's office and cutting out convention expenses. She wants to add the salaries and expenses of the tax collector's office to those savings.

"A little bit here and a little bit there all add up," the trustee said. Hall noted that more than 3,100 Namekoi Township residents voted for the position of township collector, showing public approval for the position. "The savings to our local taxing bodies by our collection and disbursement could become a very sizeable amount," Hall said.

The trustees will determine at a later meeting if they agree with Hall's salary request.

Third burglary suspect arrested

Janice L. Hughes, 21, of 2717 Roosevelt Ave., was arrested when she reported to Granite City police headquarters at 11:10 a.m. Monday in response to a warrant, charging burglary. The charge stemmed from a break-in at Hudson's Jewelry, 1901 State St., at 2:30 a.m. Dec. 23, 1981. At the direction of a judge, Miss Hughes was released on a $15,000 recognizance bond to appear at a later date.

Miss Hughes allegedly was one of two women found in an auto in the 1800 block of State Street with Robert B. Bladick, 28, of 3446 Bryan Ave., shortly after officers responded to an alarm at the jewelry store. Some jewelry items allegedly were found on the rear floorboard of the vehicle.

Officers also recovered a bag containing a quantity of jewelry, laying in the snow near a flight of steps at the rear of 1909 State St. Another item belonging to Hudson's was found on a nearby roof, according to official reports. Bladick pleaded innocent to a burglary charge on Dec. 27. Bond was set at $50,000 and he was transferred to Madison County Jail at Edwardsville.

Liella R. Surpin, 18, of 2015 Washington Ave., also was charged with burglary in connection with the break-in. She pleaded innocent in an appearance at the Granite City court Thursday, Feb. 18. Bond was set at $15,000, a mittimus was issued and she was transferred to Madison County Jail the same day.

An Easter bazaar and bake sale on April 9 and 10 were discussed in the business session, conducted by Dorothy Dickerson, president, and the group signed a "get well" card for Mary Sissom, who is hospitalized.

Refreshments at the meeting were served by Norma Talbot and Mrs. Dickerson, and a prize was won by Doris Glasgow.

Mrs. Talbot read one of her own poems, entitled "My Creed for Daily Life." Others attending were Dorothy Lakin, Sue Roe, JoAnn Buday, Lillian Barton, Nellie Edmiston, Maggie Glasgow, Phyllis Allen, Bonnie Davis, Opal Orrell, Bertha Dix, Omie Farless and Mary Buday.

Alcohol comes in more than 1 form

By PROF. F. HENRY FIRSCHING
Science & Engineering
The term alcohol makes many people think of ethyl alcohol, also called grain alcohol and ethanol. This compound is present in most intoxicating beverages like beer, wine and whiskey. Ethyl alcohol is the alcohol that people contact the most frequently, but it is not the only alcohol.

The term alcohol covers a very large number of compounds. Alcohols are much like hydrocarbons, the substances that make up our gasoline and motor oil. Alcohols are slightly modified hydrocarbons. To form an alcohol, one hydrogen atom on a hydrocarbon molecule is replaced with an oxygen-hydrogen group, an alcohol group. The hydrocarbon methane can be converted to methyl alcohol. The hydrocarbon ethane can be changed to ethyl alcohol, and propane changed to propyl alcohol.

There are a fantastically large number of possible hydrocarbons, and even more alcohols are theoretically possible. But actually, few alcohols are contacted routinely.

The simplest alcohol is methyl alcohol, also called wood alcohol or methanol. Methyl alcohol has possibilities as a gasoline extender because it can be made from wood and other cheap sources. Ethyl alcohol has already been tried with gasoline to yield gasoline. However, the ultimate cost of ethyl alcohol, derived from grain is prohibitive.

The main use of ethyl alcohol is as the intoxicating agent in alcoholic beverages. The terms alcoholic and alcoholism are taken directly from the abuse of ethyl alcohol. Alcoholism is considered the number one medical problem in the United States. Methyl alcohol is classified as a poison, while ethyl alcohol is only slightly toxic. When either alcohol is taken internally, the body uses it as a food. The first oxidation step converts the ethyl alcohol into acetaldehyde. Acetaldehyde is a bit unwholesome and is chiefly responsible for the toxicity of ethyl alcohol. However, the first oxidation step of methyl alcohol produces the formaldehyde. And formaldehyde is considerably more toxic than acetaldehyde.

But the first oxidation step is not the end of the difficulties presented by drinking either alcohol. The second oxidation step for ethyl alcohol converts the acetaldehyde into acetic acid. (Acetic acid is found in vinegar.) Acetic acid is a weak acid and increases the acidity of the body slightly. Usually, this slight increase in acidity can be handled satisfactorily by most people.

The second oxidation step for methyl alcohol converts formaldehyde into formic acid. And formic acid generates considerably more acidity in the human body than does acetic acid. If fairly large amounts of methyl alcohol have been consumed, the ability of the human body to handle the increased acidity is overwhelmed. The body's acidity goes too high. The drinking of methyl alcohol is fraught with disaster. Blindness and death are not unusual results.

Under normal industrial controls, the amounts of methyl alcohol in beer, wine, whiskey and other drinks is very low. However, in poorly controlled processes, such as may be found in making moonshine whiskey, methyl alcohol may become a major part of the alcohol content. Then, the definite risk of blindness and death are present.

Unquestionably, drinking ethyl alcohol does present some health problems—cirrhosis of the liver, alcoholism and others, but these are not as severe as those involving methyl alcohol. In dealing with any alcohol, it is essential that the specific alcohol be identified. After all, it becomes a deadly difference if you drink methyl alcohol instead of ethyl alcohol.

McBride heads Paddlers board

Francis E. McBride was elected president of Paddlers Board of Directors at its annual election meeting held last week in the cafeteria at St. Elizabeth Catholic Church.

McBride heads the local private swim club, at president for the third time since its formation 25 years ago.

Plans are being made by the board to celebrate the 25th anniversary year with special observances in early summer, it was learned.

Officers named to serve with McBride during 1982-83 are:

Bill Baldwin, executive vice-president; Josie Dak, secretary; Frank Halvachs, treasurer; Richard Bills, financial vice-president; Tom Brick, operations vice-president; and Glen Cornelson, membership vice-president.

Mike Werts was elected as a new director and Mrs. Diak and Bills were renamed to the governing board.

Retiring as directors this year are Al Lewis and Jim Chomko.

Other members of the board are Gayle McCormick, Terry Reed, John Stone, Russ Robinson, John Suarez and Arnel Allen.

The twin-pool facility at 2121 Johnson Road is owned and operated as a non-profit family membership club; limited to 450 shares of stock.

Cornelson said persons interested in applying for summer membership or stock may contact him or any board member for further information.

When the cosmos started is topic of SIUE lecture

A California nuclear physicist who believes "it all started 10 to 15 billion years ago," will give the William C. Shaw Memorial Lecture, Monday at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

William A. Fowler, institute professor at California Institute of Technology, will discuss "The Age of the Universe," at 7:30 p.m. in the Communications Building theater. The non-technical lecture is free and open to the public.

Fowler, who has conducted extensive research on all elements of the cosmos, will explain how scientists can use radioactive elements as clocks to find out when the elements were first produced in the earth's galaxy, the Milky Way.

He also will make age comparisons, using the rate at which stars consume hydrogen and the speed at which bodies move away from the system. He believes the age of the solar system, part of the universe that includes the earth's sun and planets, also can be determined by carbon dating and other independent methods.

According to Fowler, results show that the age ranges are consistent.

Fowler is a past president of the American Physical Society, a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and an associate of the Royal Astronomical Society. He has worked in research and development in U.S. government programs in space and defense and has served on the Naval, Space Science and Nuclear Science Advisory committees. He received the President's Medal for Merit and holds the National Medal of Science and the NASA Apollo Achievement Award.

Fowler is the latest guest in the Shaw Lecture series established to present outstanding scientists to the SIUE community, speaking on topics of broadest possible public interest.

The series honors the late William C. Shaw, SIUE professor of physics and is supported by contributions through the SIUE Foundation. It was established in 1971 with an initial contribution by Ruth Shaw, his widow. Additional information is available from SIUE physics professor Padmanabha Swamy at 1-692-3151.

be posted until the celebration week concludes. Troops taking part in the parade are from Neighborhoods One, Two, Four and Five, which includes the Quad-City area.

All mayors, including Paul Bennett, president of the Pontoon Beach Village Board, or their representatives will participate in the parade and ceremonies, according to Mrs. Lynn Ross, general chairman for the parade.

On Sunday, March 7, Girl Scouts will attend church services of their choice wearing a complete uniform and insignia depicting individual accomplishments in the overall program. Various activities and programs are planned for the week by troop members and leaders in conjunction with the anniversary.

All past leaders and registrars are invited to attend the parade, Mrs. Ross added.

Bronze cent in 1864
The bronze U.S. cent, which appeared in 1864, was inspired by the flood of Civil War tokens, mostly dated 1863. The thin bronze tokens, readily accepted by the public, were much lighter than the government's copper-nickel cents. The bronze cents were lighter, thus saving metal, and the bronze alloy was softer, reducing die wear and breakage in the Mint.

2 women among 4 running for lieutenant governor in Illinois

By BILL WINTER

Illinoisans this year have two chances in four of electing their first woman lieutenant governor.

Mrs. Grace Mary Stern of Highland Park is the lone candidate for the Democratic nomination March 16. On the Nov. 2 ballot, she will be teamed with Adlai Stevenson, the only Democrat running for governor.

Another female candidate, State Representative Susan Catania of Chicago, the mother of seven daughters, is running in the Republican primary March 16. That three-way race also includes House Speaker George H. Ryan of Kankakee and State Senator Donald Totten of Hoffman Estates.

The position of lieutenant governor is vacant at present. Republican Dave O'Neal of Belleville, a former St. Clair County sheriff, was elected as lieutenant governor in both 1976 and 1978 but resigned last year. (Two-year elective terms instead of the usual four-year terms were filled in 1976 to shift the state campaign away from presidential election years.)

The office of lieutenant governor pays $45,500 a year. O'Neal viewed his limited official duties as insufficiently challenging, but all four 1982 candidates believe they could serve meaningfully.

The likely Democratic nominee, Mrs. Stern, is no newcomer to campaigns for elective office. She is the county clerk of popular Lake County in the Chicago suburban area.

She was the personal choice of Stevenson to run for the state's No. 2 office, and they have the same political background: former State Rep. James H. Houlihan.

Houlihan was the director of field organization for Stevenson's successful 1974 U.S. Senate campaign; the senator initially won that office in 1970 and then retired from the Senate in 1980.

Houlihan served in the General Assembly for six years and is a member of the national board of Common Cause, a citizens' lobbying group.

Mrs. Stern and Stevenson have established their campaign headquarters in Chicago's downtown Loop area.

With no divisive primary opposition for any of the six candidates who were endorsed by the Illinois Democratic Central Committee, their chances in the general election may be enhanced. But Republicans believe they have been able to lock up a majority of the statewide offices and again are seen as fielding a state ticket.

The three Republican candidates are at sharply differing points of the political spectrum. All are believed to be mounting strong campaigns, and the outcome of the primary remains uncertain.

Speaker Ryan, 47, is giving up his seat in the Illinois House and his leadership role. He has the backing of two-term Governor James R. Thompson and other Republican moderates.

Sen. Totten, 48, is a conservative. He was a Midwestern political director for Ronald Reagan's successful 1960 presidential campaign. With Ryan in the center and Totten on the far right, Rep. Catania, 40, is regarded as the candidate of the left or liberal segment of the Grand Old Party.

She was a leading backer of former Congressman John B. Anderson of Illinois when he ran as an independent candidate for president against U.S. Sen. Richard Ogilvie, co-chairman of his campaign.

Comments, "I've had six years in leadership—four years as house minority leader and two years as speaker. Experience from working on a daily basis on the close issues of the campaign. Among her financial backers is the National Organization for Women."

Aiding her is recent negative publicity about Ryan's use of tax funds for reappointment litigation. His bills totaling $96,000 were submitted and, of these, fees totaling about $72,000 were paid.

Ryan and Attorney General Tyrone Fahner disagreed over whether such costs ought to be repaid to the state. Ryan then walked out of a news conference without answering questions in obvious irritation over the issue.

A strong base of feminist support for Mrs. Catania has developed. The Press-Record Springfield bureau reports, adding that many Democrats may cross over and vote for her in the GOP primary.

Plans for her major fund-raising event have featured across Mario Thomas, wife of Phil Donahue, a Chicago television news anchor.

Dr. Edward F. Ragsdale of Alton, chairman of the Madison County Republican Central Committee, is opposing Rep. Catania as a "liberal radical Democrat in Republican clothing."

He believes that the fact that some news media characterize the Catania campaign as a kind of referendum on the Equal Rights Amendment.

With time running out, Illinois remains one of the few states which has not ratified the ERA. It was Mrs. Catania who helped sponsor the ERA when it was submitted to the Illinois legislature.

The Madison County also points out that the Rep. Catania voted against her party on the redrawing of legislative district boundaries. "She has no party loyalty," he concludes.

Rep. Catania does not regard herself as a radical, instead asserting that all public officials ought to work to meet women's concerns. She says her vote against a Republican-sponsored redistricting plan was cast on behalf of the best interests of her constituents; she is the Republican legislator in a heavily Democratic district.

Speaker Ryan, in contrast to his two opponents, is trying to appeal to all segments of the party and he does have the support of most Republican county and township organizations in Illinois. (Along with his Assembly duties, he heads a pharmacy business in Kankakee.)

But Ryan has made some campaign missteps in the voting population. In the past, he was instrumental in pushing Mrs. Catania as head of the Illinois Commission on the Status of Women.

He sees the main assignment of the lieutenant governor as keeping himself ready at all times to step in as governor should that office be vacated for one reason or another.

Ryan contends that he clearly is the best equipped among the lieutenant governor candidates to handle the duties of governor, and points to Gov. Thompson's endorsement of him for the office.

The previous two Republican governors, William G. Stratton and Richard Ogilvie, are co-chairmen of his campaign.

"I don't view it as a problem," Totten says. "I talked to the governor in August when I indicated I was going to run."

"I said (to Thompson) that the disagreement and I might have would be best aired at the second floor level rather than in public, should we be a team."

"I recognize the limitations of the lieutenant governor's office, so I made that comment to him. I have had some experience working with him when we took him on as chairman of the Reagan campaign after the convention."

He and I worked closely and successfully to get Ronald Reagan elected."

Although not expecting any direct help from the president, Totten believes his past association with Mr. Reagan will help him in the state election next month.

The senator told the Press-Record Springfield bureau, "I have some unique qualifications for the office—especially so, now that Dave O'Neal has resigned and people are looking at the office rather skeptically."

"They feel we ought to elect someone with some unique qualities. One of these is the personal relationships I have with the president, many cabinet secretaries, the White House staff and agencies there."

"That will be valuable to me in assisting the governor and the legislature to implement the administration's New Federalism with the least difficulty and pain in

Pres. Gerald Ford. U.S. Sen. Paul Laxalt of Nevada, a close Reagan friend, spoke in Illinois for Totten this month, and talks are scheduled by Cong. Jack Keen of New York and Lyn Nofziger, former White House political chief.

Although in good graces at the White House, Totten, an industrial engineer, has differed with Thompson in the past. But he sees no difficulty in working with him if elected.

"I don't view it as a problem," Totten says. "I talked to the governor in August when I indicated I was going to run."

"I said (to Thompson) that the disagreement and I might have would be best aired at the second floor level rather than in public, should we be a team."

"I recognize the limitations of the lieutenant governor's office, so I made that comment to him. I have had some experience working with him when we took him on as chairman of the Reagan campaign after the convention."

He and I worked closely and successfully to get Ronald Reagan elected."

Although not expecting any direct help from the president, Totten believes his past association with Mr. Reagan will help him in the state election next month.

The senator told the Press-Record Springfield bureau, "I have some unique qualifications for the office—especially so, now that Dave O'Neal has resigned and people are looking at the office rather skeptically."

"They feel we ought to elect someone with some unique qualities. One of these is the personal relationships I have with the president, many cabinet secretaries, the White House staff and agencies there."

"That will be valuable to me in assisting the governor and the legislature to implement the administration's New Federalism with the least difficulty and pain in this state. "I am 100 percent for the president's proposal. He talked about this in 1976 and that was one of my attractions to his candidacy."

"A lot of programs belong back at the state level and even back at the county and township levels. It's going to take some time and a lot of difficulty in implementing them, and I would like to assist."

Totten does not expect many Democrats to vote in the Republican primary. He remarks, "The only potential crossover for Rep. Catania might be some people who voted for John Anderson in the 1980 primary and weren't Republican primary voters."

There are enough Democratic contests at the county, legislative and congressional levels that the crossover vote will be minimal."

Reagan delegates dominated the 1980 GOP primary and Totten hopes to benefit from some of that voting pattern.

The three Republican rivals admit there is added interest in becoming lieutenant governor because Gov. Thompson may seek to move up in mid-term to run for president or vice-president in 1984.

Also, if he wins an unprecedented third term in 1982 and completes those four years at Springfield—for a full decade of occupancy of the Executive Mansion—many believe he would not then run for a fourth term in 1988, regardless of the status of his national ambitions at that time.

Thompson, a former U.S. attorney in Illinois, could have a potentially lucrative law practice in private life, it is felt.

Disclosure statements show, he has been falling behind financially as an elected official—dipping into his personal savings to maintain himself and his family at Springfield in a manner that he thinks betrays the governor of a major industrial state.

Another reason that each of the trio wants a chance to run while paired with Thompson is that he is still a "winner and undefeated champion," never having tasted political defeat, nor has he even had a close call.

Two names are to be linked in November to a single ballot square atop the list of executive branch office-seekers.

The candidates who are hoping to venture forth this spring and summer to the voting public agree that being wedded to an unbeaten and perhaps unbeatable candidate is precisely the kind of political "marriage" to seek.

Both of these party officials reside in South Roxana. Neither of them is seeking re-election.

Proverbs 10:29... "The way of the Lord is strength to the upright."

God's ways are far above our ways and are past finding out. But His way is still the strength of the upright. God does not make mistakes. His judgment is perfect. The steps of the righteous are ordered by God. Our strength comes from knowing we are walking in His will.

The upright, of course, will be those who imitate Christ in their lives. Right motives, right attitudes, right conversation. Doing unto others as we would have them do to us.

NEW PHYSICAL EDUCATION TRAINING AIDS. A new manual to assist classroom teachers in teaching physical education from kindergarten through sixth grade has been developed by Mrs. Dolores Folkerts, standing, the curriculum director for Madison Community Unit District 12. Mrs. Folkerts presents the book to the school board at its meeting last week. Board members pictured are Don Garrett, left, and Ed Dohnal. Emphasis is placed on things children do inside a classroom during bad weather. The book is one of the first of its kind, as most manuals are designed for the outdoors playground. Filled with drawings and instruction their are 105 pages. The book will enable the elementary teachers to improve the physical education aspects, which are deemed by the administration and the board to be most important in the development of young children.

Physical education teaching aid for classroom teachers

By MICK STRANGE

Under the leadership of Mrs. Dolores Folkerts, curriculum director for the Madison Community Unit District 12, a 105-page booklet with numerous illustrations has been developed to stress the need for physical education, particularly from kindergarten through sixth graders.

Copies of the book, "Physical Education Teaching Aids for the Classroom Teacher," prepared by Mrs. Folkerts, were distributed and reviewed by the Madison Board of Education last week at its meeting.

Chapters are included in basic skills and movement, isometrics, balance beam, rope skipping, ball activities, beanbags, yarn balls, hoops, wands, relays and rhythms. A large chapter is devoted to games for kindergarten through third grade and fourth through sixth grade. Another chapter on arm-shoulder girdle development activity is divided up into sections on arm support, arms free, abdominal exercises, leg-agility development and trunk exercises.

In the forward of the book, Bonnie Prudden, head of the Institute for Physical Fitness, Stockbridge, Mass., concludes that youngsters today are in worse shape than ever before.

She is quoted as saying, "It's a disaster. There is no doubt that our kids are the most physically unfit in the world. We did the same test 20 years ago on some 30,000 kids in the U.S., Japan, India and Europe. We reported to President Eisenhower that American kids were the weakest in the world."

"We have continued to do the same test over the years, and American kids are much, much worse than in 1961."

In answer to a question of why American children don't measure up, Mrs. Prudden is quoted as saying, "They're overfed. They're too much television, passively and conveniently. It all contributes to make them fat, flabby and nervous wrecks."

"We have had people of 70 and 80 who pass the same tests that these kids flunk," she stated.

The American Medical Association has stated that exercise increases the efficiency of performing daily tasks, aids in weight control, improves posture and appearance, increases poise by improving grace and economy of movement, reduces tension, thus acting as a natural tranquilizer, and sharpens perceptual abilities.

In the book developed in Madison, several other experts are quoted, pointing out the need for early physical education among young children.

The President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports reported not long ago that youngsters who had the benefit of early sports activities were, as adults, twice as active as those who had limited exposure. They are four times more likely than others to take the kind of exercise that promotes continued health and vigor.

According to Mrs. Folkerts, the aim of the Madison mission in this project is to offer physical education and build positive attitudes toward becoming and staying fit. Mrs. Folkerts said, "The activities in the book are built around the major skill areas. Many aids were found to be available for teachers concerning outdoor physical education."

"Since it was found difficult to discover many outside activities in one reference, this book has concentrated upon activities that can be performed in the classroom, to help the teacher to meet the challenge of teaching physical education on days of inclement weather. The primary thrust of the program is to enable each child to develop physically, emotionally, socially and mentally through the medium of physical activity as they participate in daily physical education," Mrs. Folkerts said.

She called to the attention of the board that both Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk and Justice Mayor Tyrone Echols are giving much support to the program.

Mrs. Folkerts said that many community organizations, parents and senior citizens are donating inexpensive materials needed to prepare things to be used in the program, in addition to their time in preparing some of the items, and that she is most appreciative.

Marion Guest of the Venice Silver Balls senior citizen group, and Mrs. Frances Baker of the Madison Senior Citizens, are both helping gather material and make items for the school children.

Some of the items needed are broomstick handles 30 to 36 inches long, denim, canvas or ticking cloth for the making of bean bags, heavy duty thread, 20-inch dowel rod, plastic leaf bags, masking tape and rug yarn.

Community groups or parents also may donate money to buy some of these things. More information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Folkerts at the board office, 877-1712.

Shirley Chisholm, the senior Democratic congresswoman in the U.S. House of Representatives, will lecture on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville tomorrow.

Sponsored by the Black Student Association and Women for Women, Mrs. Chisholm will speak in Meridian Ballroom in the University Center at 8 p.m. Tickets for the lecture are $3.50 for general admission and $1 for SIUE students.

Born in Brooklyn, N.Y., Rep. Chisholm became the first woman of her race to be elected to Congress. She is secretary of the House Democratic Caucus and vice chairman of the Congressional Black Caucus.

She is the only woman — and the only black American — to sit on the powerful House Rules Committee.

Rep. Chisholm's strong belief in the necessity of education, both basic and continuing, is reflected in her own career; she holds three degrees in education and has received 14 honorary doctorates from schools across the nation. A former New York City nursery school teacher, she has served as director of a child care center and was an educational consultant to the

New York City Division of Day Care.

In the mid-1960's, Mrs. Chisholm was thrust into the political spotlight when the people of Brooklyn sought leadership for their district. She was elected to the New York State Assembly in 1964. In the 1968 general election, Mrs. Chisholm became a member of the U.S. House of Representatives.

In 1972, Congresswoman Chisholm took another step and ran for president. She was the first woman and the first black to seek the nation's highest office.

Fear can be overcome, Madison Rotarians told

By JOYCE MITCHELL

St. Elizabeth Medical Center
Paul Smith, director of Talbot Hall, St. Elizabeth Medical Center's chemical dependency unit, addressed the Madison Rotary Club's last meeting, giving a talk on fear, based on a lecture he gives to his patients during their four-week treatment program. Smith says that all alcoholics experience tremendous amounts of fear. However, fear is a universal emotion that all people feel and need to cope with.

Smith described the three types of fear: Fear, the friend, that makes us jump from the path of an oncoming car; phobias, which focus fear irrationally on a particular object or situation; and anxiety, the vague feeling that one is in danger. Anxiety is the most destructive fear, he said.

Anxiety-fear not dealt with will become overwhelming and paralyze positive action, he contended. He stated that at Talbot Hall patients are taught to deal with fear by first talking fear out with others; second, learning to accept themselves just as they are now, and third, by turning their lives over to a higher power.

According to Smith, the Talbot Hall treatment program uses an AA philosophy, together with teaching alternative life-styles, problem solving and personal growth techniques. The patient can then not only maintain sobriety, but greatly improve the quality of his life.

Barge hearing at 6 p.m. today

Quad-Cityans at 6 p.m. today will speak out for and against a barge fleet project proposed for a point 800 feet north of the local water supply intake on Chouteau Island.

Up to 30 minutes will be allotted to the Illinois-American Water Co., which contends that barge sinking or leak could jeopardize the quality and safety of drinking water in big areas of Madison and St. Clair counties.

Another 30 minutes will be allocated at the hearing to the barge fleet operator, National Marine Services, which says that no filled toxic barges are to be brought here and that all safety precautions will be taken.

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency will conduct the public hearing. It will begin at 6 o'clock at the Granite City Town Hall, 2060 Delmar Ave. All interested citizens may attend and participate, speaking after the two half-hour presentations.

Thomas C. McSwiggin, manager of the Permit Section of the IEPA's Division of Water Pollution Control, had the option of calling a hearing or dispensing with it. He decided to schedule the public meeting after receiving numerous "pro and con" comments about the barge project.

Slated to be crowded out of some of its present barge fleet space, National Marine of Hartford decided to seek Engineers' Corps certification for the new site under Section 404 of the federal Clean Water Act. Section 401 clearance is necessary from the IEPA before the installation can proceed.

The barge fleet facility would be constructed on and along 3,300 feet of the left descending bank of the Mississippi River at Chouteau Island, between river miles 192.2 and 192.8, at approximately 192.5. The distance is measured northward along the Mississippi from the mouth of the Ohio River.

There would be four steel pile dolphins and 16 concrete deadmen for mooring a fleet of up to 112 barges. Operations would involve storage of empty barges, loaded barges carrying materials other than liquids, salts, wastes and similar materials. The site is not to be a cargo transfer facility.

McSwiggin said in calling the hearing that "the purpose is to enable all interested parties to provide information to the IEPA for its decision on the application. Issues to be considered include only those matters involving water quality as regulated under Chapter 3 of the Illinois Pollution Control Board rules."

"Only matters relative to the construction and operating impacts of the proposed fleet facility on the water quality of the Mississippi and the public water supply will be considered at the hearing."

"Those attending may present oral and/or written testimony on these matters. A question and answer session will follow and close the hearing."

Water obtained at Chouteau Island is processed by the water company and provided at a daily rate of up to 38 million gallons to more than 160,000 residential and business customers here and in St. Clair County.

The initial plan did not restrict barges with liquid, salt, waste and similar loads. When the IEPA resisted this proposal, it was revised.

Opponents continue to assert that weather and accidents could create safety problems with the project. How a fleet is operated would be difficult if not impossible.

National Marine says the project is needed and would be beneficial to Madison County, and that the firm has an excellent safety record. Objectors include spokesmen who say the northwestern area of the island, situated between the river and the Chain of Rocks Canal, is used for fishing, boating, hunting and picnics.

The water intake has been in use since 1927. R. W. Greaves, Illinois-American vice-president and manager, says there would be no barge on barges that had contained toxic materials. He adds:

"The proposed fleet area is one to two minutes from our intake. Containment of any spill must be judged as near-impossible. Also, physical damage to our intake structure could be caused by breakaway barges, which are not unusual."

Spill cleanup costs could run as high as $3,000 per water customer, Clarence A. Black says. He is director of water quality for the American Water Works Service Co., parent firm of Illinois-American.

Black asserts, "Since Illinois-American serves 64,000 customers, including industrial plants, a system cleanup of any magnitude could be staggering in cost. We not only serve industries but the Shrine of Our Lady of the Snows, seven hospitals, numerous nursing homes and Scott Air Force Base."

"Even a cleanup of our major distribution lines could extend into two to three weeks with costs up to $26,000 a day. Since the reaction time would be non-existent, we would have no chance to even shut down our intake prior to contamination of our 54-inch main raw water distribution line."

"Our company could sustain a $300,000 loss in filter media, not including the cost of replacement of the media in 28 filters."

A National Marine spokesman says the fleet facility has been well designed and could contribute to the local economic and employment base.

Emphasis would be placed on grain, coal and steel shipments, with oil and chemicals avoided, he reports, adding that the fleet plan conforms to overall guidelines and plans of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council.

Pleads innocent to armed robbery

David Keith Jones, 17, of 2106 E. 24th St., pleaded innocent to a charge of armed robbery in an appearance before Associate Judge P. J. O'Neill at the Granite City police headquarters at 5:10 p.m. Monday.

Bond remained at $50,000. A mittimus was issued and Jones was transferred Tuesday to the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville.

Jones was arrested on a warrant alleging armed robbery when he walked into police headquarters on Feb. 20 and asked if officers were looking for him. They were.

The charge results from a robbery at E & L Products, a confectionary at 2503 Washington Ave., which occurred Feb. 9.

Students are not eligible for deferments if they have unpaid obligations at the university and their financial assistance funds will not cover the current quarter tuition and fees as well as the owed amount. Nor are they eligible if they are past due on their National Direct Student Loan.

Additional information on deferments may be obtained by contacting the SIUE Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance at 1-692-3880.

Queen feared plots

Ever fearful of plots against her, Queen Elizabeth I kept a close check on correspondence, even going so far as to forbid any letters to enter or leave her kingdom except by official postal service.

Children may share their concerns with president

Children from across the country are being invited to share their concerns with top government leaders through the fifth annual national letter-writing campaign sponsored by Save the Children, the international child-assistance agency.

The theme for this year's letters is: "Dear Mr. President, if I had one wish for the world's children..."

The campaign will culminate during Save the Children Week, May 1-7, in Washington, D.C. At that time, all letters will be presented at a children's hearing in the U.S. Congress and at the White House. The topics expressed most frequently by the children will form the 1982 Children's Agenda for action. This summary of concerns also will be the kickoff of the new Children's Congress in Washington at which elementary school children, representing every state, will meet to address the problems facing today's youth.

The letters, along with the name of the teacher and school, must be received by April 1. They may be mailed to Caroline Brady, Dept. L4, Save the Children, P.O. Box 911, Westport, Conn., 06881. Save the Children Week, Andrews is honorary chairman. Save the Children, which is celebrating its 50th anniversary this year, was founded to provide assistance to the disadvantaged children of Appalachia. The agency now works in 33 countries, including five regions in the United States.

Services held for Florence Hadaller

Funeral services were conducted at 10 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 24, for Mrs. Florence (Veith) Hadaller, 74, of Granite City at Davis Funeral Home Chapel, 21st Street and Cleveland Boulevard, by the Rev. James Brown.

She died at 6:20 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 21, 1982, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. Mrs. Hadaller was born in St. Louis, and resided in this area for 70 years. She was a resident of Colonnades Nursing Home.

Survivors include a stepdaughter, Mrs. Robert (Betty) McCabe of Buena Park, Calif., and three grandsons, Michael, Scott and Pat McCabe.

Burial was in Sunset Hill Cemetery, Edwardsville Township.

Services for John Barnett

Memorial services for John Barnett of Woodland, Calif., husband of the former Penny Maeras, a former Quad-City resident, were held Feb. 20 at Calvary Church in Long Beach, Calif.

Mr. Barnett died Feb. 16, 1982, at Encino Hospital in Los Angeles, after suffering a stroke. He had not been previously ill.

The Barnetts were married Nov. 27, 1961. A former stuntman, Mr. Barnett was employed by Universal Studios as a stunt coordinator at the time of his death.

In his years as a stuntman, he appeared on numerous television series, such as Mannix, Man From U.S.A., Mission Impossible, Bonanza, The Virginian and Name of the Game.

Among the survivors, beside his wife, are a son, Greg Barnett of Costa Mesa, Calif., who is the stuntman for Robert Wagner in the current Hart to Hart TV series; a daughter, Mrs. Deborah Dobbin of Long Beach, Calif.; three stepchildren, Cindy, Rob and Jeff Phillips of Woodland Hills, Calif., and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Nigel Maeras of Granite City.

Multipliers for all four towns; legal quirk cited

The good news is that Quad-City area property values have not inflated much in the past year. The bad news is that assessments are going up, anyway.

The reason given is that the three-year averaging procedure in Illinois law distorts the actual trend in determining equalized assessments. State Representative Sam Wolf of Granite City is among those trying to get it changed.

The state has just set a tentative countywide multiplier of 1.1192 for Madison County. To continue the existing non-multiplier, a 1.0 factor, the county is expected to set township multipliers exceeding:

(Granite City, 1.15; Venice Township (Madison-Venice area), 1.16; Chouteau Township (Mitchell area), 1.12; and Nameoki Township, 1.11.

The potential township multipliers are based on valuation statistics compiled before town assessors' figures were adjusted by the county's assessment Board of Review.

Since most Review Board hearings resulted in reductions or no changes, township assessment totals will be slightly less than initially recorded—and the township multipliers are likely to be slightly more than listed above—James Barton, supervisor of assessments, said Tuesday.

Assessments in Madison County are at 29.78 percent of market value, based on sales of properties in 1978, 1979 and 1980. Therefore, there is a tentative multiplier of 1.1192.

Barton told the Press-Record that the approach which is mandated results in erratic up and downs in assessments. He comments:

"One illustration of this is that we must determine market value based on a three-year period."

"Then the Board of Review and the State Appeals Board both must act on individual assessment issues by taking into account only the last year's property values."

"Following this, the multiplier is applied according to the three-year average."

Barton said he and many other assessment officials throughout the state are urging that some type of revision be enacted by the Illinois General Assembly.

Secrecy

was a member of the committee which defeated the two circuit judges, said his subpoena had been delivered to him personally by Kuncze. Partney said he believes that all of those named as members of that committee were subpoenaed, but that Kuncze assured him that they were suspect of wrongdoing.

The campaign against Mosele and DeLaurenti utilized statistics on their sentences in newspaper and radio advertisements to indicate that the judges were "out of context" and were misleading. Despite Manning's statements, the judges were defeated by the voters.

Some observers called the election the first public display of the control which wealthy and powerful Madison and St. Clair county attorneys can exert on judges. That alleged "control" has been the topic of numerous newspaper features and series in St. Louis and the Madison-St. Clair county region in recent months. Many articles question whether that factor has contributed to Madison County's popularity as a "plaintiff-oriented" county, resulting in large lawsuits from throughout the state being filed here against railroads and other defendants.

Morris Chapman told the Press-Record this morning that he is "frankly a little tired of having it all on me... I feel the contention here would have to be that attorneys—about a half dozen, not just me, but a whole group—falsely and fraudulently made statements about a judge. That is just not true. First, no false or fraudulent statements were made and, second, anything done was done by a committee, not us."

Chapman disagreed with the use of the word "hearing" in describing the group's actions, saying, "It is simply a fact gathering thing, not a hearing. It is a one-sided affair. Their way of collecting data and we're not involved. There are six of us that they are checking out to see whether or not that want to submit it to the board," he said.

The board would then determine whether to issue a complaint. If a complaint were issued, a hearing would be called and the attorneys could be exonerated or face reprimand or even disbarment said that none of the six attorneys about which information is being gathered have been subpoenaed for questioning. "It's a one-sided affair," he repeated.

Mental Health group fills four positions

Mental Health Services, Southern Madison County, Inc., has filled four positions. The position of records librarian at the Granite City facility was filled when Linda Ann Simmers, a resident of Edwardsville, began employment this month. She is a graduate of Venice High School. Her previous employment was working for Kroger in Glen Carbon.

The position of mental health worker was filled by Janice Bryan, who also began employment this month. She received her bachelor's degree in education from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Prior to coming to Mental Health Services, she worked as an intake specialist for the Madison County Department of Public Aid in Granite City, Illinois.

She will work primarily with the Parent Training Initiative program. The program is designed to work with parents who are experiencing stress in their lives. The intent of the program is to help the parents learn to make the most of their resources (money, food, clothing), and also learn new ways of dealing with their children. With a grant provided by the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services, individuals are able to focus on their strengths and use them to improve their family life.

By attending Parent Training Initiative classes at Mental Health Services, people are helped to interact with other individuals who may have similar kinds of problems, and by working together, can help resolve these problems.

Phyllis Whitehead, who obtained her MSW from the George Warren Brown School of Social Work at Washington University, and has been with the agency since 1970 was selected for promotion to supervisor of the Community Counseling Services, 2024 State St.

The Community Counseling Services program is designed to provide a wide range of counseling services including community education and consultation, crisis intervention for individuals, family members, marital couples and groups seeking to deal with emotional problems in such a way that their intrapersonal skills are strengthened. Her job responsibilities become effective Monday.

The final position, that of supervisor for the Community Support Services program ADC (Adult Development Center), was filled by Orville Mercer, who obtained his master of social work degree from the George Warren Brown School of Social Work at Washington University. He has been with the agency since 1981.

The Adult Development Center provides individual and group therapy, socialization, recreation, occupational and medical expertise with group oriented towards maintenance and growth. Mercer's job responsibilities also become effective March 1.

Mental Health Services is a not-for-profit organization that serves all residents in the southern half of Madison County. The agency has satellite facilities at Highland and Edwardsville.

More information about the programs is available from Janice Mayberry, 2024 State St., telephone 877-4420.

GC woman SIUE student body vice-president

A Granite City resident has been elected vice-president of the student body at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Debra Ann Buer, a 1980 graduate of Granite City High School North, was elected at this month's Student Senate meeting. A sophomore majoring in nursing at the university, she plans to graduate in the spring of 1984.

In addition to her duties as vice-president, Mrs. Buer also serves on four committees. She is the acting chairman of the budget committee and a member of the University Planning and Budget Council, Tower Lake Residents' Association and the University Center Budgeting Council.

Mrs. Buer's term expires June 1.

The warrant was served when officers were called to a disturbance at 2815 E. 25th St., and Foschetti was observed at the scene.

Hearing on erosion plans

One Million Dollars. That's what soil erosion costs the state of Illinois in lost farmland production every single year, according to state officials. Cropland erosion contributes 86 percent of Illinois' total soil loss, which amounts to 155.7 million tons of lost earth each year. The numbers are big, and so is the problem.

In fact, erosion and sediment control is the number one water problem facing Illinois today, according to the Governor's Task Force for Water Resources. It is one of the several water issues that have prompted the Illinois Water Resources Commission to set public hearings throughout the state during the next few weeks.

The commission has scheduled a hearing here on Wednesday, March 3, at 7 p.m. at the Hi-De-Ho Restaurant, Route 127, Springfield. The hearing will open with a presentation of the State Water Plan by representatives of the Governor's Task Force, which compiled the plan.

State Rep. Betty Lou Reed (R-Deerfield), chairman of the commission, stressed the importance of active public participation in the hearings. "We need public input if this plan is to fully address the water problems facing Illinoisans today, problems like erosion."

Erosion causes serious pollution, it strips farmland of valuable soil and it also results in sedimentation of water bodies. Sedimentation reduces depth in waterways, reduces holding capacity in lakes and ponds and leads all too frequently to serious flooding. State and federal officials estimate that $50 million in agricultural flood damages occur in Illinois each year. This means that erosion damages twice. First in $1 million land loss and second in $50 million damages that result from the sedimentation and subsequent flooding. The cost of sedimentation is high.

"The damage must be controlled. We simply cannot afford either the loss of farmland or the loss of water space," said Rep. Frank Watson (R-Greenview). "In the meantime, while work to control erosion, I favor reducing flood probabilities in whatever way possible."

"We all know that Carlyle Lake will probably flood this year. It will flood because the water level in the lake is kept high to allow barge traffic on the Kaskaskia. Currently there are proposals to prohibit barge traffic on the river. I think reducing the water level in the lake is a very workable solution to our flood problem, since it appears we may not even have barges to benefit from the higher levels," Watson explained.

Area legislators sitting with the commission at the hearing will be Representatives Mike Slape (D-Pocahontas), Everett Steele (R-Glen Carbon) and Frank Watson and Senators Jim Dannewald (D-Breese) and Sam Vadala (D-Edwardsville).

"A lot of effort has already gone into this plan," Rep. Reed said. "Even more will go into it before it is completed. We need public input now, to make it as effective as possible in dealing with local water problems." Written comments may be addressed to the Illinois Water Resources Commission, K-2 Stratton Building, Springfield, Ill., 62706.

Fenton woman stabbed in GC

A Granite City woman is being sought by police to answer questions in connection with the stabbing of Doris Price of Fenton, Mo., who was in stable condition Tuesday at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Mrs. Price, 38, suffered multiple stab wounds in an incident occurring about 8:30 p.m. Monday at an address in the 2000 block of Washington Avenue.

Called to the medical center's emergency room at 8:50 p.m. Monday, officers found Mrs. Price had sustained a serious stab wound to her upper left chest, four wounds in her back and several in her legs, they reported.

She had difficulty talking due to a probable collapsed lung, but was able to tell officers that a woman had come charging into the apartment and stabbed her many times.

Her assailant, whom she identified, then fled with a man who was in the room at the time of the stabbing, she said.

Mrs. Price was unable to give a reason for the attack. The man in whose apartment the incident happened told police he was downstairs at the time and had found Mrs. Price seated on the bed, bleeding from the wounds, and had brought her to the hospital.

It is believed one or two other persons were in the house when the stabbing occurred.

At the scene, officers said a quantity of blood was visible on the bed and on the floor next to the bed. Mrs. Price's clothing had several puncture marks and was covered with bloodstains, police said.

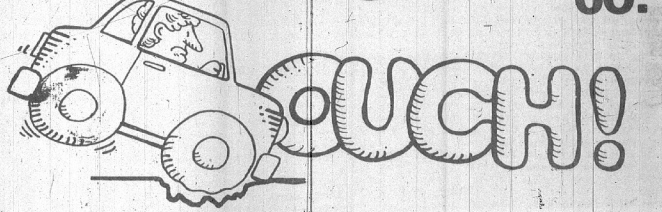

An investigation is continuing.

Girls to offer pre-owned gowns

By VALERIE EVENEDEN
of the Press-Record

Final plans for an innovative project, designed primarily to allow young women in high school to purchase gowns for formal functions at reduced cost, are being completed by staff members and students at both Granite City high schools.

The event will take place Saturday, March 13, from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m., in the girls' gymnasium at Granite City High School South.

At that time, high-school-age girls and others will have an opportunity to purchase a pre-owned formal, according to Terry Papa, a North High physical education instructor.

To be eligible to offer a gown, the seller must be a student currently enrolled at either North or South high school, Mrs. Papa said.

But, anyone may come in and purchase the formal wear.

The girls will set their own price on a dress, which is expected to be considerably below present retail cost, she noted.

However, whoever the seller decides to charge is up to the individual.

Transactions will be handled strictly on a cash basis only.

Dr. Thurnace York, associate director of Prayer Partners for the City of Faith in Tulsa, Okla., and former pastor of Tri-City Park Tabernacle, will be ministering here on Feb. 28, at 10:45 a.m., according to Rev. James Parks, the current pastor of Tri-City Park Tabernacle.

Dr. York assumed his duties at the City of Faith last June, and while in Granite City he served on the Granite City Library Board, The Madison County Drug and Alcohol Control Board, and was active in the Teen Challenge Outreach and the Granite City Rotary Club.

Dr. York holds 10 certificates of education as well as administrative education. He founded and organized the Institute for Family Counseling and through his Better Life Seminars and has reached literally hundreds of people, it was noted.

The former pastor began his ministry at age 17 and traveled throughout Europe, Africa and the entire world in a ministry of evangelism.

The City of Faith is associated with the Oral Roberts Evangelistic Association and Oral Roberts University, where he previously worked with Oral Roberts in 1946, and helped to establish the first office of Oral Roberts Ministries.

The service is free of charge and the public is invited to attend, added Parks.

Some farmers, fishermen, must pay tax by March 1

Certain farmers and commercial fishermen must file their federal income tax returns and pay any tax due by March 1, 1982, the Internal Revenue Service says.

Persons who earned at least two-thirds of their 1980 or 1981 gross income from farming or fishing and did not make an estimated tax declaration by Jan. 18, 1982 (or who made a declaration by Jan. 18, 1982 and underestimated their liability), must file their return and pay all tax due by March 1, 1982, to avoid paying a penalty.

Free IRS publications 225, "Farmer's Tax Guide," 495, "Tax Guide for Commercial Fishermen" and 505, "Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax," provide additional information. To order these publications, the IRS says, taxpayers should write to the IRS address found in their tax package.

Cleanup drive begins in Venice

By MICK STRANGE
of the Press-Record
With the snow of 1982 hopefully over, the Venice City Council is preparing to continue its drive to clean up the town.

A discussion was held at Tuesday night's council meeting concerning about 20 residences and old buildings that need to be either repaired or torn down. Mayor Tyrone Echols asked the aldermen to take a careful investigation of each ward and make a list of address and names of owners of structures which are in need of repair and which are either considered unsafe from a structural standpoint, or are fire hazard.

At the next council meeting, 60-day notices to repair the structures will be sent, and if the owners fail to comply, the city will take legal condemnation action against the property and the owners.

Wilbert Glasper, a citizen attending the council meeting, commented that he hopes all the citizens in Venice will clean up their yards and alleys. Glasper noted that the snow is gone and there are old papers and other trash that has gathered over the past several weeks, due to the weather.

Several letters addressed to Venice Street Superintendent Thomas Scaturro were read to the council complementing the city workers on their work during the record-breaking snowfall.

A lengthy discussion was held on a revision of the ordinance forbidding dogs running loose. The ordinance was given to the aldermen two weeks ago for their study. Final adoption of the ordinance is expected at the next council meeting Tuesday, March 9.

Aldermen have received many complaints of dogs running loose. After the dog catcher picks them up, frequently the owners "demand" they release the dogs and then they fail to keep the animals on a chain or in a pen, it was contended.

The new ordinance is expected to carry heavy fines and will be enforced, according to comments made by Mayor Echols and numerous aldermen.

Mayor Echols read a letter from Congressman Melvin Price in which Echols was thanked for a recent letter in support of continued funding for the apprentice outreach programs.

Price noted in his letter, dated Feb. 12, "I have already contacted the Secretary of Labor to request that the programs in our area be fully funded. I am hopeful that upon reconsideration, these programs will be able to continue."

Mrs. Dorsett funeral today

Funeral services were held today at a Webster Groves mortuary for Mrs. Margaret Piercy Dorsett, 80. Her late husband, the Rev. Willard Dorsett Sr., who died in 1973 at the age of 73, founded churches in Granite City, Lombard and Auburn, Ill., and Ballwin, Mo. He was a pastor, evangelist and missionary for Assemblies of God independent Pentecostal assemblies.

Mrs. Dorsett died of a stroke Feb. 21 at the Manchester, Mo., home of her son, David, where she had been residing. Also surviving are a daughter and another son.

News notes

State Rep. Susan Catania, one of three candidates for the Republican lieutenant governor nomination, will attend a fund-raising event on her behalf from 2 to 6 p.m. Thursday, March 4, in the home of Mrs. Gladys Lewis of Alton. For information, Quad-Cityans are calling 462-8267 or 465-0280.

Those who did not register on time for possible military draft have through Saturday to sign up and avoid prosecution.

Persons 65 and older are being reminded to apply for a 0.0 home state assessment exemptions. Applications will be filled out through tomorrow at the Venice Township office, 422 Madison Ave., Madison.

St. Clair County Circuit Judge William B. Starnes on Tuesday ordered a rehearing by the 21st Congressional District electoral board on whether Cong. Melvin Price fully qualified to have his name on the March 16 Democratic ballot. The special board including Circuit Judge William B. Starnes, Madison County clerk said the decision was up to Congress itself.

Madison County Chairman Edward Ragsdale says Haniel Bailey of Granite City will run for sheriff and William Ambrose of Alton will run for county clerk.

Mitchell man shot in chest

Steven Davis, 24, 160 Voight St., Mitchell, was admitted to St. Elizabeth Medical Center at 12:30 a.m. today suffering from a gunshot wound to the chest. He was in stable condition at SEMC later this morning.

A 22-caliber bullet entered his upper right chest area and exited the upper right part of his back.

Madison County sheriff deputies answered a disturbance call at 11:58 p.m. Wednesday from a neighbor who had heard arguing, loud voices and the sound of a single shot being fired.

Mitchell firemen were at the scene giving first-aid to Davis in the dining room of a residence when the deputies arrived.

County authorities today are investigating events that led up to the shooting, and at this time believe there was a "family-type disturbance." The investigation is continuing. No charges have been filed.

Two named in multiple drug warrants here

Warrants from the Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southwestern Illinois alleging illegal drug activity were served on two Granite Cityans at 2:25 p.m. Tuesday.

Police took Cynthia D. Sergerson Peretto, 21, into custody at her apartment, 1104 Kirkpatrick Homes, on three 1982 allegations of delivering a controlled substance.

Officers arrested Donald L. Doty, 25, at his apartment, 4310 Kirkpatrick, on two 1982 charges of delivering a controlled substance. They were held overnight, pending the posting of bond.

Car stickers sale Monday

Granite City residents can begin purchasing city car stickers with the Civic Park "candle" design on Monday, but they will be paying a higher price.

The Granite City Council increased passenger vehicle sticker prices from $3 to $5, as well as hiking the cost of stickers in all other categories.

Late charges for those buying stickers after the May 15 deadline will also be higher.

Mayor Paul Schuler said the changes could add 25 to 45 percent to the city treasury, depending on the time the stickers are purchased.

Besides the city clerk's office at City Hall, regular passenger car stickers will soon be available at cooperating grocery stores. Car stickers can also be obtained through the mail.

Schuler said the biggest complaint he has received about past sales was their lack of availability with sales hours limited to the 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. city hall schedule.

Sales through the grocery stores will eliminate the salaries of three to four extra employees that had been near to assist in the Civic Park stickers sales, Schuler said.

Senior citizens, 65 years old or before May 15, should purchase their stickers at the Granite City Township Hall, 2060 Delmar Ave. Seniors will be charged $1 for their stickers.

Those persons who have been certified as being totally and permanently disabled by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare may also purchase their car stickers for $1. The stickers will be issued by the city clerk.

The new price for motorcycles or mopeds is $3. Trucks will be charged according to weight as follows: one ton, $10; one to two tons, $12; two to three tons, $15; three to four tons, $17; four to five tons, $20; and over five tons, $31.

After May 15 prices will be: passenger vehicles, $10; motorcycles or motor vehicles, $5; trucks, one ton, $15; one to two tons, $20; two to three tons, $25; three to four tons, $30; four to five tons, $35; over five tons, $40.

Mixing Illinois coal, grain answer to energy problem?

Despite a worldwide oil glut, turmoil in the Midwest continues to imperil U.S. energy sufficiency, necessitating continued efforts to find abundant fuel supplies.

An Illinois version of energy Utopia might well be something that made use of this state's two most plentiful resources—grain and coal. And that is precisely what scientists are working on at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale. We hope they are able to find enough money to continue their work.

Putting those two resources together to fire-utility plant boilers, heat homes and provide raw materials for the chemical industry may sound like a pipedream. But those on the staff of the High Sulfur Coal Conversion Division of the SIUC College of Engineering and Technology think they are on the verge of being able to demonstrate that they have achieved a breakthrough.

Here is how Pete Brown of the university news service tells it:

"The researchers are nearly ready to prove that a coal conversion process they have been working on for the past two years has the potential to turn Illinois' bountiful farm products and this state's almost unlimited high-sulfur coal into low-sulfur fuels and chemical feedstocks at commercially attractive prices.

"None of this is 'blue sky' stuff," says Charles Muchmore, associate professor in the Department of Thermal and Environmental Engineering. "It's more a question of working out the details and scaling the equipment up for commercial application than investigating a new and untried process."

So far, they have focused their efforts on producing a slurry of grain alcohol and finely ground coal.

They are studying the simultaneous conversion and desulfurization of the ethanolic mixture that happens when it is subjected to what engineers and physicists call "supercritical conditions."

They also are evaluating the best ways to move ethanolic slurry from one place to another, Brown says. A high-technology version of a home-made cooking is being utilized to convert the coal-alcohol mixture into four products:

1. A high-BTU (British thermal unit) gas suitable for firing home heating units.
2. A charcoal-like solid fuel which could be used to heat utility plant boilers.
3. An oily liquid residue which can be reprocessed for more gas and solid fuel.
4. An array of organic chemicals, potentially useful to the chemical industry.

The SIUC approach is a modification of the Keller process, named after its inventor, a Texas entrepreneur and chemical engineer. It seems to work the way it does because the coal-alcohol mix is subjected to the aforementioned supercritical combination of heat and high pressure.

Nobody yet understands exactly what happens to the slurry when temperatures and pressures reach that point, but the results are radically different from what occurs in the same mixture at lower pressures.

Promising results reported at Carbondale thus far include:

- A. The gas, which is much like natural gas, can be easily cleaned so that it becomes almost sulfur-free.
- B. The solid fuel contains 30 to 40 percent less sulfur than does the coal from which it is processed, and the scientists are confident they can get rid of a lot more.
- C. Use of high pressure in the conversion makes the process relatively energy-efficient compared to other methods of converting coal to liquid or gas fuels (which use high temperatures to do the work). The somewhat cooler temperatures require less expensive equipment and fewer potential environmental complications.

D. The slurry that is used to produce the fuels is safe and easy to move from one point to another for processing.

E. Another potentially useful byproduct is a protein-rich cattle feed left after the alcohol is distilled from the grain.

Kenneth Tempelmeier, college of Engineering and Technology dean, is excited about the project's future and says:

"We're not looking at having to design and develop new, exotic equipment. It's all being done with more or less standard items—off the shelf, almost."

"The research team need will look into what is involved in building bigger test units and commercial-sized conversion plants. You always run into problems you can't predict when you're trying to scale up a process from a bench-scale model."

"The project began with seed money from the state government, and SIUC has been supporting it with internal funds for the past year."

"If the process is to become a commercial possibility, more outside money will need to be found. We're exploring several possible support sources, including the newly-established Illinois Coal Research Board."

Based on the progress that has been made, he would add, it is a excellent way to use some of the ICRB funds.

Audubon Society studies bluebirds

The Southwest Illinois Audubon Chapter met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Jensen, last week, to hear a program on bluebirds and their habitat.

Guest speaker was Dave Harper, Southwest Area wildlife biologist, who also distributed plans for bluebird houses that were made by Ralph Schook of Godfrey.

Harper also gave members a pamphlet on inviting wildlife to residential backyards and told how to help conservationists in the district keep illegal hunters under control.

The next meeting is scheduled for March 8 in the home of John and Ginger McCall, 40 Washington Place, Edwardsville.

Cosentino will speak Saturday

Jerome "Jerry" Cosentino, state treasurer and Democratic candidate for Illinois secretary of state, will be the principal speaker at the annual dinner of the Edwardsville Township Democratic Club to be held Saturday at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Marine Road, Edwardsville. The dinner is at 6:30 p.m.

Edwardsville Township Supervisor Robert C. Stille is the dinner chairman. Cosentino was elected the 63rd treasurer of Illinois in November 1978 by a margin of 164,699 votes. He says he is the first Italian-American elected to an executive state office in Illinois.

Now 50, he was born June 13, 1931, in Chicago and was educated in the city's public schools. In 1953 he married Charlotte Hassman and they currently reside in Palmdale Heights. They have five children, Carla, Cary, Claudia, Carolyn and Christopher.

Prior to his election as state treasurer, Cosentino served four years as a commissioner of the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago. While serving there, he was responsible for enactment of a land use program that leased idle district properties to local communities for use determined through extensive public hearings in Cook County. One parcel, the "Lockport Prairie," was permanently preserved as the last natural prairie remaining in Illinois.

During the state treasurer's first term in office, a record of $600 million in revenue has been earned on investments of state funds. He says he is guided by the concept that funds on deposit in local banks should earn high interest and also be utilized for community service projects.

He has allocated state deposits for use in mortgage lending, agricultural loans, disaster relief loans, neighborhood rehabilitation programs and short-term assistance to school districts and financially troubled local-level governments.

State senator praised by police

To the Editor: Senator Sam M. Vadalabene, Democrat, 56th District, who resides at 300 Circle Drive in Edwardsville with his lovely wife, Mary, is well deserving of the title, "a good man."

From his freshman year as a representative in 1967, he has been a good man for people in Illinois.

Down through the years, Sam has been a Senate sponsor or co-sponsor on law enforcement bills which enforce municipal police deputies, conservation police, university police and all pension bills.

In 1981 alone, he was sponsor in the Senate of House Bills 284, 295, 296 and 382, and Senate Bill 587.

Sam's military service was in World War II with the 29th Infantry Division in Europe. He received the combat infantry badge, three bronze campaign stars, the European Mediterranean ribbon, good conduct medal and presidential unit citation.

He is also a member of the following service and fraternal organizations: Knights of Columbus, Elks, Moose, American Legion, VFW, state legislative director for American War Veterans, Tri-City Italian-American Organization, and an honorary member of our cities.

Sam also serves on the following commissions: Cities and Villages, Public Problems, and the Illinois State Police.

Legislative Advisory Committee to the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission, chairman.

Commission to Visit and Examine State Penal Institutions, chairman.

Mississippi River Parkway Commission, chairman.

Motor Vehicle Laws Commission, chairman.

Atomic Energy Commission.

Legislative Audit Commission, secretary.

Transportation Study Commission.

Legislative Space Needs Commission.

Port Advisory Council. His present committee assignments include: chairman, Executive Appointments, Administration, and Veterans Affairs; vice-chairman, Appropriation II; member, Executive, Insurance, and Higher Education.

Senator Sam speaks with great pride on the many honors and testimonials that have been bestowed upon him, which we are proud to list:

—Known as "father of civic centers," "father of the bikeways" and "Mr. Library."

—Illinois Association of Superintendents, Education Service Regions; "unselfish distinguished service and continuing interest in improving public education in Illinois."

—Outstanding Freshman Legislator, 75th General Assembly; first Crusade of Courage Award ever presented to an elected public official by the Illinois State Chamber, Knights of Columbus.

—1969 Outstanding Citizen Award of the Edwardsville Association of Commerce and Industry.

—1969 Outstanding Legislator Award of the Illinois Association of County Superintendents of Schools.

—Street (Vadalabene Drive), and stretch of highway (Vadalabene Pass) named after him.

—Other namesakes include a towboat (Senator Sam), a recreational field (Vadalabene Park), a thoroughbred race horse (Senator Sam M.V.), and a 13-mile bike trail from Alton to Grafton named Sam M. Vadalabene Bike Trail.

—Honorary riverboat pilot.

The good senator is one of the few legislators who have an outstanding record in support of police bills. He is entitled to and deserving of our support in his endeavors.

Actor taking the starring role in his own melodrama

Wall Street Journal—We see that actor Ed Asner, a household face by dint of his years (on television) as "Lou Grant," Moore's boss and as editor Lou Grant, is in a spot of trouble.

Mr. Asner is head of the Screen Actors Guild and his management has not met with universal approval.

For the time being, he has been running a campaign—which he recently publicized on the New York Times op-ed page (opposite the editorial page)—to raise money for the Communist guerrillas in El Salvador.

Actor Charlton Heston apparently was speaking for a good many other SAG members when he said actors are "very touchy" about having someone else speak for them, a complaint that Mr. Asner dismissed as "wholly unfounded."

There is a recall movement against Mr. Asner and he claims to have received a death threat.

Whatever it all means, the drama here is better than some we have seen on "Lou Grant."

People who work in Social Security-covered employment earn credits for their earnings. Those who are not covered by Social Security have no credits.

These credits determine whether benefits will be payable when the person retires, becomes disabled, or dies.

Both self-employed persons and those who work for others will earn a quarter of coverage for every $340 earned in 1982. Income from self-employment counts as Social Security only if the net profit exceeds $400 a year.

No more than four quarters of coverage can be credited for any year. The monetary figure changes each year to reflect changes in wage levels.

How many quarters of coverage are needed before a person becomes entitled to benefits? The local office, 274-4100 or Enterprise 1-555, says the general rule is that one quarter of coverage is needed for each year after 1960 or for the year the person turns 21—whichever is later, up to the year the person becomes 62.

However, no one ever needs more than 40 quarters of coverage to be eligible for benefits.

In regard to disability benefits, a person who is at least 31 years of age at the time he or she becomes disabled generally needs at least 20 quarters of coverage within the 10-year period ending when the disability began. Workers aged 43 or older need more credit.

However, workers who become disabled before age 31 need fewer than 10 quarters of coverage.

Eligibility for Medicare hospital insurance is also partly dependent on quarters of coverage.

People at least 65 years of age who are entitled to Social Security benefits are automatically eligible for

How Quad-Cityans can earn quarters of coverage

Medicare hospital insurance; those not eligible for payments can get hospital insurance by paying a monthly premium.

Medicare medical insurance is not based on quarters of coverage. People who are eligible and want to participate in the program must enroll and pay a monthly premium.

Additional information about earning quarters of credit can be obtained from any Social Security office. The East St. Louis office is at 450 Missouri Ave.

Disaster area designation qualifies some for lower assessments due to damage

Real estate tax breaks for those whose homes suffered substantial damage in the heavy February snowfalls have been made possible by Governor James R. Thompson declaring 15 counties in Southern Illinois as state disaster areas.

The announcement qualifies property owners for reassessments in the wake of snowstorm damage received Jan. 31 through Feb. 3. The governor declared Alexander, Bond, Clinton, Fayette, Jefferson, Madison, Marion, Monroe, Montgomery, Perry, Randolph, St. Clair and Washington counties to be state disaster areas.

The gubernatorial declaration will permit property owners in those counties to have land and permanent structures reassessed for damage by the storm reassessed by contacting their local assessor, as provided by law.

Support services provided by the Illinois National Guard will be financed as a result of Thompson's declaration.

During the snowstorm, National Guard armories provided emergency housing for motorists in the Pontiac, Decatur, Mt. Vernon and Salem areas. As many as 28 members of the Illinois National Guard were called into action in battling the snow.

The National Guard also provided 13 four-wheel, six-wheel and eight-wheel-drive vehicles and an end-loader to assist in clearing snow from community snow removal and emergency services efforts.

Madison shocks Assumption in Semi-finals, 90-72

By ROGER KRAMER

DUPO — Everyone who attended the semi-final game between Madison and East St. Louis Assumption Wednesday expected a close game, but what they got was a surprisingly game.

During the regular season, the teams split their two games, each winning by two points. However, Madison proved to be the dominant team and defeated the Pioneers 90-72.

Madison, now 2-5 for the year, is scheduled to play either Venice or Lovejoy Friday in the regional championship game at 7:30 p.m.

The Trojans simply outclassed Assumption. Assumption played a good game, but Madison was that much better. The Trojans made the field goals and free throws when they needed them, and the defense did its job when the offense didn't play as well.

"We were playing much better tonight than we did in the first two times we played them," Madison coach Larry Graham said. "We feel we're much better both offensively and defensively than we were early in the season. We really played a good game."

Madison point guard Billy Papa said, "We wanted this game more than they did. A lot of people, some of our fans, told me Wednesday was going to be our last game, and we didn't want it to be."

Madison's first half was probably the best basketball the Trojans had played this year. Madison made 18 of 28 field goal tries in the first half for 64 percent, and the Trojans forced eight turnovers in the first half.

Madison, leading 34-31 with 3:24 left in the second quarter, scored nine unanswered points. The key scoring play in that stretch was Carvel Claggett's lay-up and foul shot with 2:16 left.

Against a team of Assumption's caliber, a 12 point lead was not comfortable, but the Trojans couldn't get their offense going early in the third quarter. The Trojans missed all six of their field goal attempts in the first four minutes.

However, Assumption didn't take advantage of Madison's let down. The Pioneers made just three baskets in that span, and gave the ball away to Madison eight times for the quarter.

Because of the turnovers, Madison outscored Assumption 15-4 in the final four minutes and jumped to a 60-43 lead at the end of the quarter.

"When you get down by 19 or 20 points, it's a lot harder than if you're down by just 13," Assumption coach Ted Daniels said.

"In the third quarter, we were completely cold," Graham said. "We came back after we played poorly and that's something we do well."

Assumption pulled to five points of the Trojans with three minutes left in the game. Although the Trojans held Joe Hurst, the Pioneers' leading scorer and rebounder, they couldn't stop Assumption guards Darryn Foster and Tony Berry. The two combined for 14 points in the first five minutes of the period to cut the lead.

However, the Pioneers succumbed to foul problems. Foster fouled out with 3:03 left in the game. Forward Derek Berry fouled out two minutes earlier. In all, Assumption had 29 fouls compared to 15 for Madison.

Madison, a 63 percent free throw shooting team, was an inconsistent free throw shooting team during the season. The Trojans did not falter in the fourth quarter.

Madison stepped to the line 27 times in the fourth quarter, and the Trojans made 18 of those tries. That was enough for the Trojans to maintain their lead.

"This is the best free throw shooting we've had in a while. We've been missing quite a few free throws," Graham said.

"No we didn't try to foul them in the fourth quarter," Daniels said. "But to try to get the ball back, we ended up fouling, and the result was they made their free throws and we got beat."

Madison received balanced scoring once again. Shannon Manson and Claggett both scored 22 points and Papa scored 21 points. Mark Zarr added 13 points for the Trojans. Papa's scoring performance was his best of the year.

"I gained more confidence," Papa said. "Coach Graham told me to come in closer and it helps my shooting. I have a better arc on my shot if I'm closer."

Berry led Assumption with 18 points. Foster had 16 points, and Terrence Anthony and Hurst both had 15 points.

"We defended Hurst pretty well," Graham said. "We had Zarr defending him from the baseline. When Zarr was there, he had a hard time scoring."

"They really scouted us well," Daniels said. "They knew what to do to stop Hurst."

For the game, Madison made 29 of 53 shots for 55 percent while Assumption made 32 of 64 shots for 50 percent.

"Yeah, I'm worried about our having a letdown in the finals," Graham said.

"We had better not have a let down because from here on out, these teams are our rivals."

"I think the team who comes out of this regional will go all the way to the superregionals. I'm hoping Madison goes all the way," Daniels said.

MADISON 77,

Madison didn't have any problems with the Eagles in this first round game Monday. The Trojans jumped to a 23-6 lead in the first quarter and coasted the rest of the way.

Madison made 33 of 60 shots from the field compared to 15 of 52 for Columbia, which finished the season with a 12-14 record.

Claggett led Madison with 16 points while Mark Madgett scored 15 points.

Venice mauls Metro-East Lutheran in Dupo tourney

By ROGER KRAMER

DUPO — When Metro-East Lutheran High (Edwardsville) tried to use a patient offense against Venice in a first round game of the Dupo Class A Regional Tuesday, it slowed down Venice's offense but didn't stop the Red Devils.

When Metro-East tried to run with the Red Devils, Venice literally ran away with the game. Venice defeated Metro-East 70-43 to advance to Thursday's semi-final game with Lovejoy at 7:30 p.m.

"I don't know why they tried to run with the ball," Venice coach Ken Perkins said. "The kids loved it when they tried to run with us. I don't understand why they did it."

Metro-East coach Ed Sievers wanted his team to look for the good shot. They did so in the first half, but they trailed by 14 at halftime. It was time for a change.

"I knew we couldn't run with them because if we tried, we'd get beat by 100 points," Sievers said. "If we would have had a little more patients instead of trying to shove the ball in there, we could have been down by six or seven."

"We had to run with them in the second half because we didn't want to lose by 14," Sievers said.

Venice took a 10-3 lead with 4:45 left in the first quarter, but the effort was flawed. The Red Devils forced nine Metro-East turnovers in the first quarter, but failed to make some of those shots off the turnovers.

Instead of working the ball inside, the Red Devils shot from outside. Most of the time the ball wouldn't go in. Metro-East was able to control some of the rebounding and stay seven behind, 18-11, at the end of the quarter.

"We haven't been a good shooting club all year," Perkins said. "We're only making 47-48 percent of our shots. Some coaches would take that, but I've had teams that shot about 60 percent. Last week we shot pretty well, and we're still a young team."

Although the Red Devils managed only 12 points in the second quarter because of Metro-East's patience, the Venice defense allowed Metro-East to score just five points.

Of the Red Devils' 30 points at halftime, Kenneth Walker scored 14 of them. "He was the only one who was really putting them up there," Perkins said.

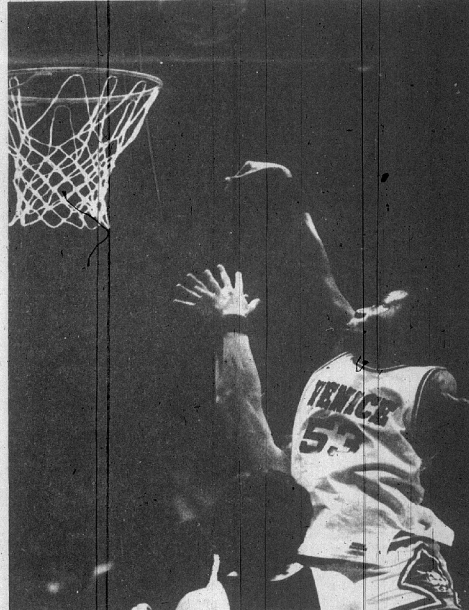

Metro-East, which finished the season with a 11-12 record, tried to get back in the game in the second half by running, but the Red Devils managed to go to a 20 point lead after 24 minutes. The Red Devils tried to push towards a 30 point lead in the final quarter, but a last moment spurt by Metro-East prevented that from happening.

All in all, Tuesday's game was a warm-up for Thursday's battle with Lovejoy. Venice didn't go after the offensive rebound as hard as they could, but it didn't matter in this game.

"We didn't get the offensive rebounds," Perkins said. "We were out of position for the rebounds. We had three players outside and two inside, and we were blocking out but we didn't get the rebounds. We made adjustments at halftime and we rebounded better after that."

Metro-East committed 24 turnovers compared to only seven turnovers for Venice.

South downs arch-rival North

By TERESA GULL

GRANITE CITY — Gary Morgan's hands were trembling. His voice was ecstatic. He was obviously excited.

His team, Granite City South, had just defeated cross-town rival Granite City North, 46-42 in Monday night girls' basketball action. He was proud. Perhaps he was a little nervous too.

Madison County Girls Soccer Association is seeking interested individuals who would like to become officials for MCGSA spring season. Interested parties please contact MR. VINCE DEBEVC AT 451-7450.

WE ARE ALSO SEEKING COACHES. NEW TEAMS IN ALL DIVISIONS AND ANY GIRL INTERESTED IN JOINING A TEAM PLEASE CONTACT MR. EVERETT DEMOTT AT 797-0620.

When it was 36-31 then, I was scared," admitted Morgan.

But his worry proved to be unnecessary. "They played with their hearts tonight. That's the whole difference," Morgan said.

The last few games we played with X's and O's. X's go here and O's go there. Tonight, we just played.

Playing programmed "X's and O's" basketball was necessary for South at the beginning of the season. The team was young and inexperienced. The fundamentals had to be learned. But against North, South reacted to the situation. They took away North's strength, their inside game, by playing a sagging 2-1-2 zone.

"We've just got to work and learn in getting a little more confidence out there in (Continued on Page 23)

Granite City grapplers prepare for state competition

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER

Special Editor of the Press-Record
Champions. They're the elite. Everyone loves them. Being one is the ultimate fulfillment in sports. Champaign, an east central Illinois city. The location of the University of Illinois campus. A city nestled amidst America's agricultural heartland.

This weekend, and in the coming weeks, for those athletes who will compete there, the words will become more than words with similar spellings — their meanings will become synonymous.

This weekend, seven Granite City wrestlers will make the pilgrimage to Champaign to compete against hun-

wrestling

reds of other proven grapplers in State competition.

Most that return will not be champions, rather they will talk of other victories.

Granite City South coach, Bill Schmitt is a veteran of 32 years on the mats. And in those years he has learned respect for wrestlers from the Chicago area.

"I'll be extremely tough. The kids from the suburbs (Chicago suburbs) are always tough. But my kids know that," Schmitt said.

"Eighty percent of the state champions will come from around Chicago."

Sending wrestlers to State competition is an annual occurrence for wrestlers from Granite City, but as Schmitt pointed it has been 13 years since Granite City South has had a State wrestling champion.

The last was Bob Miller, a 103 pounder whose record was 40-4. Schmitt pointed that Miller's four losses came early, and later all were avenged.

Steeler coach Walt Whitaker echoed Schmitt's comments about the caliber of those wrestlers who will be competing, but stopped short of making any predictions.

"I'll be tough. Our guys will have to work twice as hard to win. But if they wrestle their own match, and don't get caught up in the grandeur of State competition we should be capable of placing."

Granite City North will be sending four of the seven to compete.

For the Stealers, Colin Davis will compete in the 98 pound category. Davis, the first from Granite City to compete, will meet Terry Walsh, 35-5, of Palos Hills.

Steve Smith, at 119 pounds, is the next Steeler to compete. Smith will face Brent Hartness, 25-4-1, of Peoria. Smith's record is 32-2-1.

Rod Unger, the only Granite City wrestler who finished first in the Sectionals, will wrestle either Steve Johnson, 34-1, of Urbana, or Michael Hogan, 23-4, of Chicago.

The final Steeler making the trip to Champaign is 155 pound Scott Corey, 35-1-0, will meet Reggie Wilson, 32-1-0, of Chicago Heights.

All of the South wrestlers are in the upper weight classifications.

Jon Frangoulis, 27-5-0, will be the first Warrior on the mats. Frangoulis will meet Phil Williams, 35-5-1, of Park Forest. It is possible that if both Frangoulis and Corey of North win their matches, they could face each other later for the 155 pound title.

The second Warrior to wrestle will be Ken Dowdy at 167 pounds. Dowdy, 23-4-0, will meet Antonio Tureaud, 14-2-0, of Chicago.

The final Granite City wrestler is 185 pound Dave Brown. Brown, 25-10-2, will meet Mike Sudduth, 34-6-0, of Evanston Township.

Competition begins Friday at 10 a.m. with the first round. The quarter finals begin later that day at 6:30 p.m.

Saturday at 10 a.m. wrestling will continue with the semi-finals, with the championships slated for 7:30 p.m.

putting the ball up." Harry Cook, North head coach said. "That's the only way to break a tight zone like they played."

North actually held the largest lead of the game, five points, with a little more than seven minutes remaining in the game. Cook felt if North could have stretched their lead to seven points, the point spread would have been too much for South to overcome in the remaining time.

But some clutch free throw shooting by South and three missed one and one opportunities by North proved to be crucial.

Nancy Jones, a junior forward, played a vital part in South's success at the free throw line. She made three out of four free throw attempts in the last minute of play to give South a four point lead.

Morgan was especially pleased with the play of Miss Jones, who scored 15 points. A couple of games ago, Morgan moved her down to the junior varsity level so she could experiment with some different playing skills. Instead of her becoming upset and angry because she wasn't playing on the varsity level, however, she improved her skills.

"Last game and this game she has played her best," said Morgan. "She understood what we were doing. I think that shows what type of person she is."

With Miss Jones scoring from the outside, Trish Skinner's scoring from the inside created a balanced scoring attack for South. Miss Skinner led both teams in scoring with 19 points.

Trina Davis and Lisa Lilley each scored 10 points for North.

Both teams were counting on a victory in Monday night's game to attain a 3-0 season. The game dropped North's record to 8-6, while South raised its record to 6-6.

"We can have a winning season or a losing season and they know it," Morgan said.

AUTO FACTS

by Harold Chitwood

If your car's liquid cooling system is filled with dirty antifreeze, it will not work efficiently. Most manufacturers recommend that the radiator be drained, flushed and new coolant added every two years. The ratio of antifreeze to water is generally found to be most effective at 50:50. Have a service technician check the ratio of the coolant with a hydrometer. If your car's cooling system is the "sealed" type, follow the manufacturer's instructions as to the type of antifreeze and time between changes. This preventive maintenance will prevent radiator damage and/or a possible cracked block.

When you do change your antifreeze, oil, brake fluid, etc. keep a written record of when you did it and how much you used. When you need service or are looking for a new car, BIG 4 CHEVROLET invites you to come see us in Collinsville at 1820 Vandavia Street or phone 345-5444. We're open Monday thru Friday 7-6 and offer you "One Great Team Behind Your Car."

AUTO TIP
Examine radiator hoses for soft, swollen or cracked areas. Replace defective or worn hoses immediately.

Seek to add mental health services in Collinsville

Mental Health Services, Southern Madison County, Inc., Granite City, is establishing a new and more productive organizational structure. The new process will not only benefit the agency, but more importantly, will allow services to increase with added efficiency.

Within the new system, Carl Meyer, program director for Community Counseling Services, has been appointed to direct the overall process of the established Granite City, Edwardsville and Highland facilities, with efforts to develop a site in the Collinsville community. In the past, the Collinsville area has been denied the benefits of direct counseling services. Mental Health Services is committed to the idea of expansion that serves the entire half of Southern Madison County equally.

In addition, Rhea Oelbaum, program director for Community Support Services, will continue to develop and offer services which meet the needs of individuals with long term disabilities. The agency has been involved with efforts to establish a group home in the Edwardsville community at the request of Edwardsville residents.

In maintaining the new organizational structure, a group home becomes a priority in meeting the needs of the community.

Finally, Mental Health services plans to create a new position, the director of administration. This individual's main job functions are to continue to improve administrative operations, and work with the service staff to enhance services in the local areas.

Mental Health Services is a private, not-for-profit organization that serves all residents in the southern half of Madison County. The agency has satellite facilities at 508 Broadway in Highland, Illinois, and a 115 South Main Street in Edwardsville, Illinois. The main office is in Granite City.

County Federal continues growth

Savers at Madison County Federal Savings and Loan Association earned a record of more than $5 million in interest during 1981. President Paul F. Sodko told shareholders at the annual meeting in the Granite City office Feb. 17.

Sodko said he was "cautiously optimistic" about economic conditions for 1982.

He said most experts expect a downward trend in interest rates during the year. Combined with flexible rate mortgages, an increase in construction starts by summer is foreseen, he added.

Madison County Federal continued to grow at a rapid pace during the year. Assets stood at $58,597,481 at year's end, an increase of $5.7 million or nearly a 10 percent gain for the year.

Sodko attributed that growth in part to the introduction of interest-bearing NOW checking accounts, and the All Savers Certificate.

He further noted the installation of a night depository in Granite City and the move of the Glen Carbon office to the Cottonwood Mall as examples of continuing efforts to improve customer service.

"We are hopeful that changes in the tax laws which make retirement programs like IRA, Keogh and SEPs more attractive will have the same positive effect on savings in 1982," Sodko said. "We are grateful for the customer loyalty we experience and thank our customers and shareholders for their support."

Directors re-elected at the annual meeting were Gene A. Adams, Kenneth J. Hillmer, D.D.S., Raymond F. Kozielek and Gilbert Rosch. The other directors are Thomas Dunlap, A. H. Froemling, C. A. Henning, Ernest L. Hopkins, John L. Palchoff, John W. Reese and Sodko.

All officers were re-elected. They are: Sodko, president; J. L. Winning, vice-president; and secretary, Jackie A. Logan and Marilyn C. Harris, assistant vice-presidents; Joyce N. Corey, Betty Anderson and Linda Mania, assistant secretaries; and Dana Shafer, assistant treasurer.

Lively race for state treasurer

By BILL WINTER
Of the Press-Record

Who will be the next Illinois state treasurer? It will not be Treasurer Jerome Cosentino, a Democrat who is trying to move up to the office of Illinois secretary of state.

Democrats hope that the Nov. 2, 1982, election will be won by retiring State Senator James H. Donnewald of Breese, who is unopposed in the party's March 16 treasurer primary.

And the odds may be in their favor; Republicans have not elected an Illinois state treasurer since 1962.

Rivals for the Republican state treasurer nomination are W. Robert Blair of Crete and John P. Dailey of Peoria and they are waging an intense primary battle.

Blair, 51 years old, is the best known of the two primary foes due to his former service as speaker of the Illinois House of Representatives. Blair says he has "gained regular party support in 73 counties, a statement that his opponent disputes."

Dailey, 40, also is waging an active campaign and is seen as the administration's candidate, even though the governor officially is remaining neutral. Former after its passage and approval.

SECTION 3: That all ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

PASSED BY THE City Council of the City of Granite City, Illinois, this 23rd day of February, A.D. 1982.

Paul Schuler
MAYOR

(SEAL)
TEST: Robert W. Stevens
CITY CLERK
No. 36 33 2 25

Governor Richard B. Ogilvie is his campaign finance chairman.

An attorney, Dailey is president of Peoria's Continental Regency Hotel and also executive vice-president of The Becker Companies, a diversified real estate development, construction and management firm.

He is vice-chairman of the Community Bank of Greater Peoria.

Active as a volunteer in the YMCA and Junior Achievement, Dailey is in his second term as chairman of the Illinois Health Facilities Authority, having been appointed by Governor James R. Thompson.

Chief assistant in 1964-68 to the State Senate Republican leader, W. Russell Arrington, Dailey next served as assistant to Gov. Ogilvie in 1968-72.

West chairman of Indiana College Young Republicans and co-chairman of the Central Illinois Thompson Finance Committee, he also has been active in the party as a precinct committeeman and on the House GOP finance committee and the field staff of the Republican national and Congressional campaign committees.

Graduating from York High School in Elmhurst, Dailey earned a bachelor degree from DuPage University and did graduate work at the University of Illinois and Claremont College in California. He graduated from the Northwestern University School of Law.

He has strong backing in DuPage County. The candidate utilized a specially-prepared "voter information petition" containing details of his background to qualify for place on the March ballot. He comments:

"This was more economical and efficient petition circulation. I will bring the same cost-cutting attitude to the state treasurer's office. "Illinois needs a treasurer with a balance of business and government experience. We can have a leaner, trimmer government in this state. We can have constitutional limits on state and local taxes."

"We can bring the Reagan revolution in economic policy to Springfield as well. It will take a strong spokesman for the taxpayer, and that is why I am a candidate. The right man can make a difference," Dailey concludes.

Blair, born in Clarksville, W. Va., received bachelor and law degrees from West Virginia University and immediately entered the Air Force, serving as a trial and defense counsel in the Judge Advocate Corps.

Released from active duty as a first lieutenant in 1956, he moved to Illinois and served as a captain in the Air Force Reserve until his honorable discharge in 1961.

He joined the Swift & Co. corporate legal staff for five years. In 1961, while continuing with Swift as assistant to the president, Blair opened his own real estate company in southern Chicago suburbs.

In 1964 he won the first of five successive terms in the General Assembly. In 1967 he was elected to the first of four terms as chairman of the Illinois Transportation Study Commission, focusing on highways and mass transit.

Blair in 1971 became the youngest speaker of the Illinois House and held the speakership for four years. He was chosen as the most effective Illinois representative in 1973.

Pres. Gerald Ford in 1975 appointed him to the National Advisory Research Resources Council of the National Institutes of Health.

The same year, Blair was named general counsel to the Illinois Transportation Study Commission, a post he still holds.

He ran in 1978 for Illinois comptroller, carrying 66 of the 102 counties but losing to Thompson-backed John Castle in the primary.

Chairman of the Illinois Baker for President Committee before the 1980 GOP convention, Baker was named a member of the executive committee of the Illinois Reagan for President Committee following the nomination.

Married and the father of three grown children, he is running as a candidate who "knows Illinois government, knows Illinois law and understands the importance of fiscal integrity in a turbulent economy." He stresses he would be an "effective" watchdog over the state's $12 billion checkbook.

As a legislator he was instrumental in passage of laws on credit practices, property tax relief for the elderly, campaign spending disclosure, "sunshine" and open meeting rules, services to the aging, and requirements that the state treasurer maintain a current public list of banks in which there are state deposits.

Blair in announcing his candidacy said the reduced flow of federal dollars to Illinois and the drop in interest rates paid on the state's investments necessitate especially sound fiscal management.

He pledged "my best efforts to provide the dedication, leadership and experience necessary to help preserve our state's financial position."

BURGLAR RANSACKS
Two bedrooms, the kitchen and dining room and an office area were ransacked in a burglary at the home of Attorney John Gilchoff, 24 Oaklawn Drive, reported 8 p.m. Monday. Entry was gained through a window, with the intruder exiting via the front door. A list of missing items is being compiled.
